EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THE trade outlook is not particularly bright.

SENATOR CONKLING arrived home from Europe on Sunday.

THE days of an established church in England are drawing to a close.

THE corn crop this year in the United States is worth $400,000,000.

THE Petit Journal in Paris has the largest circulation of any paper in the world.

YES, it is very true that the question of money and what kind it shall be will puzzle Congress next winter.

THE Watchman's rhythmical comments on Mr. Day are the most doleful part of this campaign.

WORK, Democrats, while it is Day.—Watchman. Yes, for in a few days it won't be Day at all; it'll be Quay.

POOR Jumbo, Barnum's big $300,000 elephant, got in the way of a railroad train and died in 20 minutes.

ALTOONA Times: "The wonderful record of an Ohio man named Samuel Miracle, who comes to the front with seventeen children, all sons, is cited as a clear and conclusive refutation of the oft-repeated assertion that the day of miracles is past and gone."

THE Chinese in San Francisco have rendered themselves additionally disgusting by the secret practice which they have been carrying on of boiling the flesh from the bones of those that die, packing the bones in boxes and sending them back to China. This practice was carried on extensively and has just been discovered.

IT is related that when James G. Blaine was a poor young man he wanted to borrow $10,000 to engage in business. This amount was loaned him by his brother-in-law, without security. Mr. Blaine realized on his investment and paid his relative every cent of the $10,000. There are not many men whose honesty can be trusted to that extent.

THE Republican State Committee of Mississippi has resolved not to nominate a State ticket this fall "because of the well-known impossibility of securing at the polls an honest election." This confirms what has been said by Senator Sherman and other Republicans whom the Democrats and Mugwumps charge with "waving the bloody shirt."

REFORM—for party sake—It appears that out of about 50,000 post offices in the country, nearly 7000 have undergone "reform" since the Senate adjourned. Out of 2,339 Presidential offices, the postmasters have been changed at 487, and out of 48,421 fourth-class post offices, the postmasters have been changed at 6,400. It will be observed, by those who still believe in the sincerity of President Cleveland's professions, that nearly one-third of the changes in the small post offices, namely 2,038, have been made since March 4 in four States in which elections take place this fall, namely, 618 in Ohio, 558 in New York, 439 in Virginia and 415 in Pennsylvania. It might be well for the Civil Service reformers to explain this performance, if they can.

Pick up the Pieces.

To-day the Republican party is an organization of power. It is and should always be one and inseparable. Those men who, for one reason or another, have left it at times to vote another ticket are dishonest to themselves and to others. Any man, a Republican, who ever voted the Democratic National ticket should cover his face and cry "Woe, woe!" No excuse for such an action can be found and he should always blush for his action; especially is this so of men who profess to have any love and respect for the noble principles of the Republican party. The Republican party should be solid.

What is this thing called the Democratic party? As now constituted, it is nothing; and the cohesive power which binds it together is only pure ignorance. Its chief strength is in the places where ignorance is most dense. The Republican party has certain and well-defined principles. It believes that this a Nation; that slavery should not exist; that American labor, both brains and muscle, should be protected; and a dozen other things for the good of the Nation. The Democratic party, on the other hand, varies in its doctrines according to location. It is as wavering as the winds that blow. It can no more be relied on than the Genesta could depend on a strong wind for its race with the Puritan. Perhaps at Bellefonte, in Centre county and throughout Pennsylvania it may preach a protective doctrine, but in Kentucky its doctrine is quite the reverse. A few Democrats are loyal and condemn the wrongs that rendered the war necessary, while many of them, even here in our own fair Centre county, believe that the war was unjustifiable and would have had slavery perpetuated rather than eradicate it, root and branch. This opinion prevails even yet and last week we saw the following sentence in the columns of our neighbor, the Watchman: "The Republican party will live in history only as a bloody monster (because it made war on slavery), which, to punish the people for their sins, was permitted by Providence for a brief time to ravage and destroy." Yet some weak minded Republicans, last fall, voted with the party whose chief Centre county organ says that.

There still exists in the bosom of some Democrats the belief that a State has a right to secede from the Nation on the merest pretext, and if they have their way a Rebellion of some of the States is only a question of time.

This is the party which is and should go to pieces—be pulverized to atoms. The wonder is that any vestige of it still remains. United Republicanism—the only existing party fit to be perpetuated—should rise in its might and in approaching political elections crush Democracy to pieces.

Go to work, Republicans, and continue working until the day of election. You have every chance to succeed. You have, by all odds, the best candidate in the field. He is the personification of honesty and intelligence. He has been in public life many years and no fault is found with his record. These are the kind of public servants to reward and to bid "go up higher." The Democrats cannot arouse any enthusiasm for their candidate. He is comparatively unknown. That seems to be the only way the Democrats can command themselves to the people. They have for years practiced the trick of nominating unknown men, trusting to the fact that they are unknown to let them slip through. But that is not the way American people love to do. They believe that virtue should be rewarded, not merely negative qualities. When they have a faithful public servant they believe in keeping him. Especially they do not care to take a man who has never been before the public and put him in the highest place. They believe in promotion. Mr. Day should begin at the lower round of the ladder and at least try to become Mayor of his own city before before wanting to be Treasurer of the Commonwealth. Even that disgraceful fellow, Cleveland, had horse sense enough to do that, and then his own city, knowing his incapacity, voted against him for President. But, pshaw! There's not much use writing about the matter, Quay will be elected by a tremendous majority.

Sherman's Speech.

Senator Sherman has delivered another speech in Ohio, in which he ventured to refer to and denounce the crime against the ballot which prevails in the majority of the Southern States. It will now be in order for the entire Mugwump and Democratic press, especially the Mugwump, to join in a chorus of derision and cry "bloody shirt." The dough-face element which for half a century insisted that no one should speak disrespectfully of slaveholders or slavery seems to be again coming to the front in the North, and is seeking to cry down those who see aught to condemn in the conspiracy against human rights by which half the people of the South are systematically disfranchished. He said among other good things:

"The effect of the crimes I have mentioned, is to confer upon the white people of the South not only a number of votes to which they are entitled for the white population, but also the thirty-eight votes based upon the colored population, and in this way, in some of the Southern States every white voter possesses the political power of two white voters in the Northern States. The colored people have practically no voice in Congress and no voice in the Electoral College. Mr. Cleveland is now President of the United States instead of James G. Blaine by reason of these crimes. I claim this should be corrected. An injustice so gross and palpable will not be submitted to by the colored people of the South who hate wrong and injustice, nor by the great body of Northern people by whose sacrifices in the Union cause the war was brought to a successful termination. * * * I confess there are difficulties in the way of a proper remedy. This may be brought about, first by appeal to the South to correct an injustice and wrong which will, as long as it lasts, tend to make our politics sectional * * * In South Carolina, Virginia and North Carolina, Mississippi and Louisiana, a fair election would at once correct this evil, but it will be resisted as a matter of course by dominant elements that now control the South. * * * If a policy of the past is to be pursued and their is no redress for the colored people of the South for these offences, committed under color of State law, then, under the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution, we may fairly appeal to all Northern States to stand together to reduce the representation based upon the colored vote, and on this question Governor Hoadley ought to be where he was during the War."

THE New York Tribune congratulates itself and the country that the newspaper press of the Pacific slope is a unit in denouncing the recent massacre of Chinese in Wyoming Territory as an inexcusable crime. How any thing else could have been expected of civilized men passes comprehension. But is it not strange that our eastern papers so generally ignore the original cause of the crime and the criminals who are really most guilty? The great corporation that used its granted power to force low wages upon its unhappy employes by gathering a horde of Chinese to take their places because for the time they could be got for lower wages, are surely criminals in this matter and should not be left out of the condemnation.

GOV. CURTIN says he has searched industriously for two weeks and cannot find such a thing as politics. He isn't positive whether the Democrats have any candidates in the field or not.

The Democratic Jail Delivery.

That lively journal, the Philadelphia Press, "touches off" the present condition of political affairs in true and emphatic language when it remarks that one more convict has been turned loose into the United States Treasury. This one's name is Theodore Tyrer, and his most prominent qualifications for place under a Democratic administration are a five years' sentence to the New York State Prison at Auburn and a four years' sentence to the state penitentiary of Minnesota, both of which he served, though in the first case his term was shortened by a pardon. He seems to be a scoundrel by nature and a forger by profession, but he knew Cleveland, the Buffalo lawyer, and President Cleveland recognized the acquaintance so far as to appoint the ex-convict and expert forger to a clerkship in the Treasury office.

The Democratic slogan, "Turn the rascals out," seems to mean in its application to turn them out of jail and put them into office. The Administration has certainly been pursuing this very policy. There is Horse-thief Judd, who was appointed agent of the Labor Bureau; Swindler Payne, who, after pleading guilty to the charge of obtaining money under false pretences, was appointed Barbiere's successor in the Philadelphia Pension Office; Dr. Hire, of New Orleans, who, when appointed by Pension Commissioner Black examining surgeon for the Pension Bureau, was under indictment for fraud, and is now awaiting trial. Higgins, whose seems to be the special favorite of the Treasury Department, is, as the records show, himself a professional rounder and ballot-box stuffer, and the friend and protector of notorious burglars and other criminals.

The list might be extended indefinitely. At least two postmasters appointed under the present Administration are unable to qualify, because they are in jail, awaiting trials for serious offences. Two other newly made postmasters have served terms in jail, while the number of those who careers have been notoriously corrupt who have been befriended by the new Administration is legion. Thus the Democratic party acquits itself of the charge of ingratitude. The criminal class has always been its strongest element, and now that the Democratic party is in power its horse thieves and forgers have to be provided for.

THE veteran congressman, William D. Kelley, a colleague of Hon. Samuel J. Randall, says he has noticed all the outgivings of the administration and the Democratic press, on the subject of the tariff, and is persuaded that they propose a revision of the tariff this winter in the interest of free trade. They can not make a horizontal reduction, in his opinion, by which to lessen the revenues, as they threaten, $40,000,000. Morrison, Speaker Carlisle, and their friends under the whip and spur of Henry Watterson, tried that when the Democratic majority in the house was nearly double what it is now and failed ignobly. They cannot make such reduction by putting raw materials on the free list, because all the raw materials imported into the country are already on the free list, where they were placed in 1870 and in succeeding years, upon the motion or by the efforts mainly of a now venerable man known to the country by the soubriquet of "Pig-iron" Kelley. I have no doubt that the circular of Secretary Manning to the manufacturers is a preliminary step to a recommendation in favor of free trade and I have no doubt that the movement will fail of its purpose. The agitation of the question may serve to aggravate and prolong the present business depression, but will be fruitless of such results as the administration and its friends hope to produce.

HAS Cleveland a few more criminals whom he can take from the penitentiary and put in the offices?

Mr. Parnell a Protectionist.

Mr. Parnell has filled the cup of England's bitterness to the brim. He has not only demanded the restoration of the Irish Parliament of Grattan's time, with the venal House of Lords left out, but he has also committed that National Legislature to the policy of protecting home industries. In his recent speeches he has been as explicit in his denunciations of the results of free trade so far as the island is concerned as in his demands for the abolition of landlordism. Not only Mr. Parnell, but all leaders of Irish thought, both in the old and the new world, are rapidly becoming protectionists. In the United States last year not less than 200,000 of them rallied to the standard of Blaine, because he best emphasized the doctrine of Protection. All advices received this year show that these men came over to the Republican party upon this principle, and the word now daily passed from man to man is, "we come to stay." They will stay, and in the Republican ranks resist Free Trade agitation, and will this year especially resist the proposed reduction of $40,000,000 of duties. They will everywhere be found voting the Republican ticket, and nowhere more strongly than in Pennsylvania, where last year 30,000 of their members swelled the majority for Blaine.

MR. CADWALADER, says the Philadelphia Press, is deliberately engaged in violating the civil service law. This assertion is not made without direct and ample evidence. The law provides that "no person in the service has any right to use his official authority or influence to coerce the political action of any person or body." Mr. Cadwalader is wilfully and wantonly trampling upon this section. He is using his "official authority or influence" in attempting to "coerce the political action" of his subordinates. He is calling employes into his presence, openly interrogating them as to their past political record and plainly telling them that if they expect to remain they must vote the Democratic ticket. His questions and announcements are equivalent to a threat of removal for their political convictions or to attempted bribery of political apostacy as the price of retaining their places. Nor is this attempted coercion limited to the messengers and laborers. It is tried in the same gross way upon employes who belong to the classified services and who are protected by the civil service law. The Collector does not hesitate to ask men who gained their places by merit and hold them by virtue of law whether they do not think they ought to vote the Democratic ticket because there happens to be a Democratic Administration!

Quay will Play Day.

Chambersburg Public Opinion.

The Spirit observes that "most of the Republicans overlook the fact that flay rhymes with Quay." Here is our answer:

Neighbor, say;
We can say
Matthew Quay
Means to flay
Conrad Day
In a way
That will lay
Him like clay.
Breathless—yea;
It don't pay
To fight Quay;
Let us pray
For poor Day
Whom our Quay
Means to flay.

AND now they have printed in a journal in the south called "Dixie," a paper purporting to have been written expressly for it by Uncle Randall, on the subject of the tariff, which Mr. Randall says he did not write, but which must have been made up of extracts from his speeches. The managers of "Dixie" come back on the distinguished Congressman asserting that he not only wrote it for them but that the copy has his signature attached to it. Can such things be, &c?

Poetry.

ON THE SHORES OF TENNESSEE.

Move my arm chair, faithful Pompey,
In the sunshine bright and strong;
For this world is fading, Pompey—
Massa won't be with you long;
And I fain would hear the south wind
Bring once more the sound to me,
Of the wavelets softly breaking
On the shores of Tennessee.

Mournful through the ripples murmur
As they still the story tell;
How no vessels float the banner
That I've loved so long and well;
I shall listen to their music,
Dream that again I see
Stars and Stripes on sloop and shallop,
Sailing up the Tennessee.

And, Pompey, while old Massa's waiting
For Death's last dispatch to come,
If that exiled starry banner
Should come proudly sailing home!
You shall greet it, slave no longer—
Voice and hand shall both be free,
That shout and point to Union colors
On the waves of Tennessee.

Massa's berry kind to Pompey,
But old darkey's happy here,
Where he's tended corn and cotton
For dese many a long gone year.
Over yonder Missis' sleeping—
No one tends her grave like me;
Mebbe she would miss the flowers
She used to love in Tennessee.

'Pears like she was watching Massa—
If Pompey should beside him stay,
Mebbe she'd remember better
How for him she used to pray;
Telling him that way up yonder
White as snow his soul should be,
If he served the Lord of Heaven
While he lived in Tennessee.

Silently the tears were rolling
Down the poor old darkey's face,
As he stepped behind his master,
In his long-accustomed place.
Then a silence fell around them,
As they gazed on rock and tree,
Pictured in the placid waters
Of the rolling Tennessee.

Master dreaming of the battle,
When he fought by Marion's side,
When he bid the haughty Tarleton
Stoop his lordly crest of pride;
Man remembering how yon sleeper
Once he held upon his knee,
Ere she loved the gallant soldier,
Ralph Vervais, of Tennessee.

Still the southwind fondly lingers
'Mid the veteran's silver hair;
Still the bondman close beside him
Stands behind the old arm-chair,
With his dark-hued hand uplifted,
Shading eyes, he bends to see
Where the woodland boldly putting,
Turns aside the Tennessee

Thus he watches cloud-born shadows
Glide from tree to mountain crest,
Softly creeping, aye and ever,
To the river's yielding breast,
Hail above the foliage yonder
Something flutters, wild and free;
"Massa! Massa! Hallalujah!
The flag's come back to Tennessee!"

"Pompey, hold me on your shoulder,
Help me stand on foot once more,
That I may salute the colors
As they pass my cabin door.
Here's the paper signed that frees you;
Give a freeman's shout with me—
'God and Union!' be the watchword
Evermore in Tennessee."

Then the trembling voice grew fainter
And the limbs refused to stand;
One prayer to Jesus, and the soldier
Glided to the better land.
When the flag went down the river
Man and master both were free,
While the ring-dove's note was mingled
With the rippling Tennessee.

Our Story Teller.

The Editor Sleeps.

AND ALSO DREAMS OF VARIOUS SUBSCRIBERS.

Once upon a time a village editor sat in his quiet sanctum industriously perusing the political editorials in his city exchanges. At length that which he read began to have its legitimate effect; the editor nodded once, twice, thrice; his eyes closed; the city daily fell from his nerveless fingers and three flies lit upon his bowed head and balanced all, swung corners, crossed over and promenaded all around to the music of the rythmical editorial snore. The village editor was asleep, and sleeping, the village editor dreamed.

He sat at his desk with weary fingers and aching head. The last local item had gone into type, the last inside reading notice had been set up, and the youngest apprentice stood grimly by, with lines of impatience upon his brow and a daub of ink under his left eye, waiting for copy. Suddenly there was a step without, the door opened, a man entered, and taking a vacant chair in front of the editor's desk, to which the editor had politely called his attention, said:

"My dear sir, my name is John W. Smith. I am a subscriber to your paper, as you well know, and being in town to-day, I thought I would take the opportunity to call and tell you that I like your paper all but one thing. You don't print enough matter on the tariff question. Poetry and stories and funny paragraphs and local items may do well enough to fill up a paper with in ordinary times, but just now the country is awake to the tariff question, and if you want to keep your paper alive you've got to give your subscribers light on the tariff. You should not have less than three columns of editorial and five columns of extracts on the tariff every issue. That's all I've got to say, and I hope you'll bear it in mind. By the way, I owe you two years' subscription, and one of these days I'll call in and pay it. Don't forget to let yourself loose on the tariff. Good-bye."

As the man who wanted more light on the tariff passed out a little, nervous-looking person came in and took the vacant chair.

"Ah," he said with a little smile that didn't look strong enough to be out, "ah, my dear man, I see you are absorbed in thought, as an editor always should be. And that reminds me that you are neglecting—almost totally neglecting—science. Too much of politics, too much of politics, my dear man. Your paper will never grow in circulation while you neglect science for politics. You should devote not less than four columns a week to science. That's all I came to say. Be in some day and pay you my subscription. Good-day; but don't forget to give us plenty of science."

The footsteps of the man who wanted science had not gone beyond the editor's hearing when the third visitor entered and took the vacant chair as if he was accustomed to sit in it.

"I am sorry to notice that you are neglecting politics just at this important period," he said kindly, but gravely. "You should strive to keep the vital principles of our party constantly before the people. I like your paper in all but its lack in this respect, and some day, perhaps at the beginning of next year, I will subscribe for it. I see it now every week in Brown's office. If you would write about five columns of fresh political editorials every week you'd see the paper going right up in circulation. That's what I told Brown yesterday, and he agreed with me. A story and a scientific article occasionally, and a little local matter and some marriage and death notices to please the women, are all well enough; but I can tell you that a country paper, to amount to anything and have any influence, has got to be full on political matters. That's all I want to say now. When you want any points on politics I'll be glad to help you out. And, by the way, don't forget that I'm a candidate for the Legislature. Good-day."

The next visitor who took the vacant chair that sat in front of the village editor's desk spoke as follows:

"I stepped in to-day, sir, to tell you that I do not want your paper any longer. In some respects it is a good paper, but you do not print enough news matter. You should have a full page of news, at least. I don't care anything about your protective tariff and your tariff for revenue only, or anything of that sort. I want the news when I take a paper. I want a full account of the murders and suicides and railroad collisions and divorce cases. Don't sent me the paper any longer. I'll come in and pay you what I owe you when I have sold my corn. Good-day."

And then there came a light step at the door, and a person wearing a severe countenance and a shawl came in and took the vacant chair.

"I am very sorry," he said in measured tones and with a fixed and critical stare at the end of the editor's nose, "I am very sorry to notice that you are giving in your columns so little attention to the cause of prohibition. You must arouse yourself upon this great question and give your readers a page of it weekly. I am not a subscriber to your paper, but I borrow every week from my neighbor, and I loan him the Banner of Truth in exchange. So you will observe that I have been one of your faithful readers, and I know just where you fall short of making a good newspaper. I will leave you a few tracts from which you should make liberal extracts from time to time. You will notice that this one entitled 'Dash the Cup Away!' is written by myself. You are at liberty to print it in full. And when I come across anything particularly good in the columns of the Banner of Truth I'll cut it out and send it around to you. You have a grand opportunity to make your paper grow in circulation and influence and I hope you'll come boldly to the front on the right course and no longer continue to devote your valuable space to trivial matters. By the way, have you a few exchanges that you are done with? Ah, that will do. Thanks. Good-day."

In the door the man in the shawl passed a person with a merry twinkle in his eyes.

"I like your paper; it is first rate," he said as he dropped into the vacant chair, "except that it does not contain humor enough. Why don't you fill her full of jokes and bright things by the funny fellows, and make your readers laugh? Nobody cares a cent for those political editorials and those scientific articles and that stuff about the tariff you print. That puts me to sleep. Give up plenty of jokes to shake a man's liver up, and let the tariff take care of itself. That's all. Be in to see you again when I've more time; ta, ta."

The next person who took the vacant chair had a countenance as solemn as a second-hand hearse. He didn't look as if he had smiled more than once in years, and the village editor took him for an undertaker who wanted to advertise a patent embalming process and pay in trade.

"Sir," said the solemn man after a silence that became very painful to the village editor. "I am grieved to notice the tone of levity that has recently pervaded the columns of your paper, and I am compelled to ask you on that account to take my name off your list. You seem to forget that this is a world of calamity and woe, and that a spirit of levity in the press is unseemly and tends to draw attention from the solemn realities of life and the near proximities of death. Last week you declined to print my article entitled 'Reflections on the Grave,' alleging that you did not have room for it, and then gave up nearly a column of your paper to frivolous jokes. I do not intend to read anything light this year. That is all I have to say. Good afternoon."

The dreamy-eyed man went out as softly as a sixty-day note falls due, and moment later another style of person dropped into the vacant chair and spoke thus in tones that were sharp and quick:

"I don't think I shall take your paper another year. You are not making it as good a paper as you should with your opportunities. You are not giving your readers enough local matter. Local matter should be the chief feature of the village paper. Everything else should be made to give way to local matter. A story now and then, when you have plenty of room, and a bit of poetry to please the young folks who are in love and a little news matter are well enough, but if you want to make a village paper a success you've got to let yourself out on local matter. Give the news of your own community and let the big dailies take care of the rest of the world. And, by the way, if you are a little short of local matter this week, you may say that I have invented and patented the most common-sense churn that has ever been introduced to the people of this state. I'll be in again in the course of a few weeks and will then pay you my subscription for last year. Good day."

The village editor was just sliding under the table, a crushed and mentally demoralized man, to hide his head in despair or in the waste basket, or in both, when a loud knock at the door brought him from his dreams to his waking senses.

"How old are you, old fellow?" cried a cheery voice, and the Old Subscriber from up the creek took the village editor by the hand with a harty grasp and shook a pain into the editor's shoulder-blade. And then the Old Subscriber from the creek seated himself in the vacant chair and merrily spoke thus:

"Well, old boy, you're just giving us the very best paper we ever had. A good story every week, some poetry to please the women folks, a column or two of fresh humor to make us laugh and keep our livers running on regular schedule time, just about enough of politics, all the news that is worth a busy man's time to read, every important local event written up in breezy, readable style, and advertisements of all the public sales and of the stores and shops that offer us bargains. Yes, sir, your paper is good enough for me—worth twice what you ask for it—and I want to pay you a year's subscription for myself, and here are four dollars more, for which you may send your paper to my son out West and my daughter down South, for they both like to get the news from the old home, and you give more of it in one issue of your paper than I could write in twenty letters. That's all I have got to say to-day. Come out and see me when I begin to make cider, and bring a jug along if you have one, and if you haven't, I've got one to lend you. Good-bye."

And the Old Subscriber from up the creek went out with a smile upon his face that began just below his left ear and spread leisurely about over his face and then quietly meandered back to the place of beginning.

The village editor was about to pinch himself to see that he was really wide awake, when the cry of "copy!" came to his ears and then he didn't think it necessary to pinch himself. He only folded up three crisp two-dollars bills and put them in his pocket, with the beautiful thought that this world in which we live is not so bad a world as folks sometimes dream it is.

All in the Family.

"Oh, yes," remarked a sharp-faced prosperous looking passenger; "Dakota is a great country. I've just come from there. It's going to be a good farming region, and there will be good towns up there by the hundreds. That's my business starting new towns. Money in it? I should say so. What do lots bring? I don't sell. No, sir; haven't sold a lot for fifteen months. Give 'em away. Every last one of 'em. You can have the title deeds of a dozen right now if you want 'em. No, the man that tries to sell town lots in Dakota gets left."

"How in the world can you make any money giving away town lots?"

"Just as easy as rolling off a log. There's 10,000,000 people in this country hungry to get hold of anything they can get for nothing. They swallow town lots as if they were oysters. I send a peck of deeds by every mail to eastern parties who have replied to my emigration circulars. The lots don't cost 'em a cent, but they must pay the recording fees. My son-in-law is recorder. The surveyor's charge must be paid. My youngest son is surveyor. That is just a starter, you know, to interest the lot holders in their property, as it were. That's what we call the preparatory state. Then comes the real business part of the transaction. Local improvements must be made, and the city council (that's me, my son-in-law and two hired men) levies a special assessment. The first thing is grading street. Then comes sidewalk. Then sewer. And if they stand it clap on fence. But the most of 'em won't stand it. After paying a few hundred dollars for grading and sidewalk the most of 'em fail to whack up. Of course the city treasurer, (that's me) takes possession under the law. Why, with land at $2.50 an acre the recorder's fees alone make us even, and the special assessments are a regular bonanza. Can I give you half a dozen lots to-day?"

A Prospective Presentation.

"Is to-day your birthday, Mr. Gingerbread?" asked Johnny of the young man in the parlor.

"No, Johnny. Why do you ask?"

"Sis is going to make you a present. She said so."

"Indeed. What did she say?"

"She said you'd been coming here long enough, and that she'd give you the mitten to night."

Insurance Men on Their Ear.

A law has just been passed by the legislature of New Hampshire which has led to the withdrawal from business in that State of most of the foreign insurance companies which have heretofore taken risks there. The law, which received the signature of the Governor on Saturday last, commands the insurance commissioner to revoke the license of any insurance company not organized under the laws but doing an insurance business within the State which shall make application to remove any suit or action to which it is a party from the State to the United States courts, or which shall enter into any compact with other insurance company for the purpose of governing or controlling the rates charged for fire insurance on any property within the State. The laws also contain a "valued policy" clause, providing that in actions to recover for a total loss sustained by fire, or other casuality to real estate or buildings on the land of another, the amount of damage shall be the amount expressed in the contract as the sum insured, and excluding any other evidence as to the value of the property insured, except that in case of partial loss the amount of the damage done shall furnish the measure of the recovery. The section, however, allows the admission of evidence to prove overinsurance fraudulently obtained. The law also commands the insurance commissioner a standard form of policy for companies insuring property in the State, and declares that no company will be allowed to do any insurance business within the State unless it shall conform to the regulations of the commissioner.

Some time since most of the foreign companies, that is, companies organized without the State, signed a compact agreeing to remove all their agencies from the State of New Hampshire in the event of the passage of such a law, and stipulating further not to accept any risk on property located in New Hampshire for any citizen of that State, or to reinsure any such risk so written, so long as the law remained in force. Upon the passage of the law the companies who had signed the compact issued notices to their agents to discontinue all business for them in the State. This action will throw the insurance business in the State largely into the hands of the domestic companies. Some of the representatives of the foreign companies declare that they have been taking risks in the State at a loss solely for the purpose of covering the whole field of insurance business. They declare that the people of the State are really more interested than the companies themselves in having the latter remain.—Bradstreet.

A Terrible Retort.

At a certain church meeting the subject of wine-drinking was introduced, which found advocates and opposers. An influential member at last arose and in a most vehement manner denounced opposers of wine drinking as fanatics. As he took his seat a layman asked permission to speak, who addressed the Moderater as follows:

"It is not my purpose to reply to all that has been said by the last speaker. My object is humble and practical. I know a father who was at pains and sacrifice to educate a son at college. There he became dissipated, but after he returned to his home, its genial influences, acting upon a generous nature, reformed him. I need not tell you, that father rejoiced greatly.

"Well, years passed. The young man completed his professional studies, and was about to leave home to enter upon his life work, when, in an evil hour, he was invited to dine with a neighboring clergyman noted for his hospitality. At dinner wine was introduced—was offered to that young man and refused; was offered again and refused. He was then laughed at for his singularity. He could withstand appetite—ridicule he could not. He drank—he fell! From that time he became a drunkard, and long since he has gone to a drunkard's grave.

"Moderator," continued the old man, with streaming eyes, "I am the father; and he who just addressed you—it was he that ruined that son!"

An English Leader.

The Marquis of Salisbury is about six feet, of unwieldy figure, and his sallow features are completely curtained by copses of straggling hair. He has little pretentions to be regarded as an orator like the G. O. M. he has succeeded, being unprepossessing both in appearance and manner, and he has an unpleasant habit, when he rises, of turning his side, instead of his front, to his audience, and in this attitude bending, almost lying, over the table when he desires to emphasize a particularly telling party point. There is about him, however, a certain air of melancholy which is interesting, and the tones of his voice are subdued and plaintive. At times, too, though not eloquent in the ordinary sense of the word, he is an effective speaker, terse, clear, and vigorous.

A Montreal paper invited its subscribers to send to the editor letters stating what disposition should be made of Riel, the condemned revolutionist. One man, evidently believing that hanging was not severe enough punishment for treason, suggested that the condemned be sentenced to witness an Uncle Tom's Cabin performance, in which bloodhounds and jackasses play the leading roles.

The tally-ho is out of favor this fall.

We violate no confidence when we state that there is no vital significance in the fact that the Druggists' Convention adjourned sine die yesterday.

A private watchman in New York city is charged with five different robberies. He was on duty but two nights, and this accounts for the few charges.

An article in an exchange is headed "Why a Count Shot Himself." We haven't read the article, but suppose it was because his monkey died, or some one stole his organ.

Little boy, beware! The good, kind lady who gives you a gingerbread to-day, when you come over to play with the little boys and girls, may be your mother-in-law some day in the rosy future.

When a Washington girl can speak forty words in French, play a little tune for a cent on the guitar and name six fashionable watering places, it is said that she is fully prepared to become the wife of a Congressman.

Prince Louis of Battenburg is said to be an excellent practical printer. When he married he certainly got a "fat take." Considering his wife's dowry, there is no reason why he should be "out of sorts."

Bunco Man to Granger with a gripsack—Why, how do you do, Squire Smith? Don't you remember meeting me up in Squashville last winter? Granger—Guess you lie, young man! I'm Sam Stubbs from Texas. Bunco Man (rapidly sheering off)—Excuse me, stranger, 'twas all a mistake."

"Mamma" said a young lady, "you must read the new novel. It tells how a young lady sat down. She walked into the room—walked, mind you—and put her hand on the back of a chair. The chair was sitting close to the wall and she gently removed it to a position near the centre of the room. She sat down, not hard, not violently, but easily. She wasn't hurt. No shrill cry rent the air. Just as she sat down the grocer's wagon stopped in front of the door. Oh, it's splendid!"

Showing the force of habit: "Is this the last train North?" asked a stout little gentleman, rushing into a railway station. "No, there is another in forty-five minutes. All aboard!" cried the conductor. "Almost an hour to wait!" sighed the little man, dropping into a seat and mopping his brow with his handkerchief. "But you have plenty of time to catch this train," said the conductor. "This train? Well, I'm blamed; of course I have. I'm so used to catching the last train that—whoop! hold on!" and the little gentleman bolted through the door for the cars.

September Fashions.

While the tournure stills grows larger and larger, the side draperies are decreasing or disappearing altogether and that the marked feature of the skirts of dresses for fall will be the absence of the bunchy side draperies.

There are numbers of new bodices, but the favorite shape is the bodice made with a small basque curved in over the hips, with or without a waistband. Short jackets, too, are very fashionable.

The coat sleeve still retains its hold upon popular favor, but it must be remembered that a coat sleeve presents a totally different aspect when trimmed with its own or with a foreign material, with brocade, with lace or with jet; and it is in the endless changes which the various trimmings effect that novelty in sleeves is obtained.

Old dresses can be entirely concealed beneath the still fashionable dust coats. A new model in light weight cloth, mixed red, brown, blue and gold, is trimmed with garnet velvet and secured by clasps of old silver. The coat is pleated back and front and has small shaped velvet basques at the waist. The collar and cuffs are also velvet and the garment is just as long as the skirt of the dress with which it is to be worn.

Among other noticeable features are the collars, which are not all made high, and turned up. Some of the new bodices are cut round quite plain at the top and trimmed with a turned-down lace border; others are made with plastrons on vests, which can be removed with the will and others substituted, thereby changing the appearance of the toilette. Some dresses are also made with two sets of sleeves, one short to the elbow the other long, so as also to be useful both for outdoor and evening wear.

THIS is a business-like Administration, we have been told. Well, the steamships reaching Havana last week carried consignments of goods from New York merchants. The goods arrived before the mails, which instead of being sent by the steamer had been forwarded by way of Key West. The venerable tow boats employed between that port and Havana broke down and the mails were delayed four or five days. As the mails contained the invoices for the consignments, the goods had to be stored to await Uncle Sam's convenience in forwarding the letters and drafts. The New York Merchants who suffered from the inconvenience and expense involved at this delay do not perceive where the business-like element comes in. One of these days the Administration will find out that it is not the best policy in the world to antagonize the business interests of a great Nation.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH REGIMENT, SECOND BRIGADE, N. G. P., BELLEFONTE, Sept. 14, '85.

General Orders, No. 16.

I. Private George Thomas, company G, is hereby dishonorably discharged, his name ordered to be stricken from the rolls of the said company and he will forfeit any pay which he might have earned at the annual encampment at Camp Gallagher because of his disobedience of orders in leaving the camp without permission or authority on two distinct occasions, and neglecting and refusing to perform duty to which he was ordered.

The case of Private Daniel W. Ford, company G, has been investigated, and while his conduct at Camp Gallagher is censured, the offense is not considered of so grave a nature as to call for further action.

II. Company commanders will hereafter hold the usual drills, taking care to warn every member of the several companies of the time of meeting; and where members of the said companies refuse or neglect to attend the same without sufficient cause shown, their several company commanders are hereby ordered to prefer charges against them forthwith and they will be court-martialed for disobedience of such orders.

IV. Before the close of the season arrangements will, if possible, be made to have a rifle team organized from the best shots in each company; all these teams to meet at some central point and contest for the championship in the regiment.

This match will, of course, not conflict with the contest for the regimental trophy heretofore awarded to the company qualifying the greatest number of men. By order of

Window-glass Workers,

The Philadelphia Press, of Wednesday, had the following comments on a subject of interest in Bellefonte:

The window-glass manufacturers are feeling the depression more than any others. The trouble which is now keeping the factories idle is the operatives' pay. So far the wage question has not been adjusted. A conference was held some time ago between a committee of the Window-glass Manufacturers' Association and representatives of the glass-workers, but no agreement was reached. At that time the manufacturers firmly stated that wages must come down. The workers firmly replied that they would accept no reduction and there the matter ended. Another effort will be made this week, and the outcome of the conferences to be held will be awaited with interest.

A prominent window-glass manufacturer stated the situation in this wise:

The manufacturers feel that a large reduction must be made in the wages and the men do not feel disposed to accept any. If a reduction is made they are not willing to go to work. We have not decided upon what reduction to make, but it will have to be large. There has been a large reduction in price, and the manufacturers have actually been running their mills at a heavy loss. We are now selling glass at much less than the cost of making it, and I would be very glad to sell what glass I could make in the next year for the cost of production. In the past year the price of window-glass has fallen at least 25 per cent. While material is a little lower, labor remains the same, and the cost has only slightly declined. I am not very hopeful that such an arrangement will be made with the men as will enable us to go to work again. The business continues very dull, with little chances of improvement. There is some activity for special sizes, but general stocks are very large.

How young old people look who have never been seriously sick, and who never worry and fret. How old young people look who fret and stew and suffer pain—all at once. But we can't altogether help our disposition, and we will sometimes get out of sorts in spite of all our caution. Then we need the best, the simplest and safest medicine known, which is Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Purifies the blood and renews vitality in old and young.

Business Getting an Unexpected Boom.

From the Chicago Herald.

"Oh, yes," said the Ohio passenger, "our campaign is warming up. Getting right lively. It's helping business, too, so it is."

"Helping business?"

"Yes. Foraker made a speech at our town t'other night and since that we have had the darndest liveliest trade in guns and ammunition ever you seed. Our town is close to the Ohio river, you know, and our folks are wide awake, they are, and they don't intend to let the rebels catch 'em nappin', they don't."

Medical, Etc.

Only Temperance Bitters Known.

No other medicine known so effectually purges the blood of deep-seated diseases.

Millions bear testimony to its wonderful curative effects.

It is a purely Vegetable Preparation, made from the native herbs and roots of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol.

It removes the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health.

It is the great Blood Purifier and Life-giving Principle; a Gentle Purgative and Tonic; a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the power of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to.

The Alterative, Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Anti-Bilious, Solvent, Diuretic and Tonic properties of VINEGAR BITTERS exceed those of any other medicine in the world.

No person can take the BITTERS according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Bilious, Remittent, Intermittent and Malarial Fevers, are prevalent throughout the United States, particularly in the valleys of our great rivers and their vast tributaries during the Summer and Autumn, especially during seasons of unusual heat and dryness.

These Fevers are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these organs, is absolutely necessary.

There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as it will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus forearmed.

It Invigorates the Stomach and stimulates the torpid Liver and Bowels, cleansing the blood of all impurities, imparting life and vigor to the frame, and carrying off without the aid of Calomel, or other minerals, all poisonous matter from the system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Pneumonia, Dizziness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are at once relieved by VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, the Bitters have no equal. In these, as in all constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS has shown its great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to Paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take occasional doses of VINEGAR BITTERS.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Swellings, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations, Humors and diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of the Bitters.

Pin, Tape and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like VINEGAR BITTERS.

Measles, Scarlet Fever, Mumps, Whooping Cough, and all children's diseases may be made less severe by keeping the bowels open with mild doses of the Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, this Bitters has no equal.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood when its impurities burst through the skin in Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when, and the health of the system will follow.

In conclusion: Give the Bitters a trial. It will speak for itself. One bottle is a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Around each bottle are full directions printed in different languages.

Saturday's Proceedings in the Laporte Murder Trial.

HUNTINGDON, Sept. 19.—The evidence for the Commonwealth in the Laporte murder trial closed to-day, and as the conclusion approached, public interest became more intense. There was great anxiety to hear what line of defense would be developed and the trial progressed to a stage that satisfied curiosity on that point. The testimony for the prosecution occupied the morning session of the court, and was quite as damaging to the defendant as any heretofore given. John Kinch, the Justice of the Peace to whom Laporte surrendered himself the day after the murder, and who committed him to jail, testified that when he and his father, Judge Laporte, entered the office on that day, the Judge said:

"Jack, why did you kill Irwin?"

Laporte replied, "I didn't kill him."

They then moved toward a window, when the Justice noticed the fresh scars on Laporte's face and said, "How did you get your face scratched?" He answered, "I had a scuffle with him."

In response to the other questions Laporte said that he had spent the night along the road near Mong's, which is less than a mile from where Irwin's body was found; that he had not gone home because he had been drinking the day before and was sick and dirty and did not want his mother to see him, and that it was he who had crossed Hamilton foot bridge in the morning.

CORROBORATED EVIDENCE.

This strongly corroborated evidence previously given by Milford Neff, who lives between Worrior's Mark and Mong's, and who said that about 10 o'clock on the night of the murder he saw a man about Laporte's size pass his house in his shirt sleeves; that the shirt was white and that by the moonlight he could see a large spot on the left sleeve and something that looked like a coat under his arm. This statement the defendant's counsel seemed to be preparing to dispute in the argument, but that the prisoner did go along the road about that time can scarcely be questioned.

After the prisoner's admission to the Justice, Antis Ellis testified that he saw Laporte and Irwin nearly at the time they were in Warrior's Mark that day and when they left the village the last time after 9 o'clock in the evening and detailed fully all their movements. He said that Irwin was drunk and that Laporte was not and that he heard the latter say that he would rock Spangler, a young man he had seen there, or kill some one else before he went home. This witness went with the constable in search of Laporte's clothing the second day after the murder and was given a blue blouse by the defendant's brother and a pair of pantaloons, the suspenders, which have played such a conspicuous part in the trial, and some other articles by his mother and sister at his father's house, but the white shirt mentioned by Heff, which all the other witnesses testified he wore, was not among them.

The inference drawn by the District Attorney is that if produced it would tell a tale. The microscope used by Dr. A. B. Brumbaugh, who made the examination for blood on the suspenders and the knife found in the field, and who testified on Thursday, was brought into Court and a hair taken from the bloody stone, which lay near Irwin's head, was adjusted on the slide and the jurors, one by one, passed around and looked at it. This closed the Commonwealth case.

THE DEFENSE BEGUN.

R. M. Speer opened for the defense, denying that Laporte committed the deed, but dwelling more at length upon the insanity, which he believed to be hereditary in the family. He said the evidence to be offered would show that the grandmother and sister of his prisoner on both the others of the maternal sides and a paternal and mother and one of his father's were insane, and that one of his brothers died in an asylum. Samuel Jones, of Tyrone, an uncle of the defendant, testified to the insanity on the mother's side. He said that his mother, who was Laporte's grandmother, was of unsound mind at four different periods of her life; that she first became so when one of her daughters was born and that she became so again when Laporte's mother was born. Her disease was of the nature of melancholy, and, instead of making her violent, had the contrary effect. Her daughter, who was born at per first period of insanity, was similarly affected, refusing to make any physical exertion and persisting in lying in bed. She died in an asylum.

This was the only witness offered to-day for the defense and the court adjourned until Monday.

Trying to Prove Insanity.

HUNTINGDON, Sept. 21.—Young Laporte's counsel produced strong evidence to-day to establish his legal irresponsibility for the alleged murder of James Irvin. Judge Laporte, who is 74 years old, swore that on his son's paternal side his grandmother's aunt and brother were insane. The latter died in an insane asylum at Harrisburg at the age of 35 years, about the prisoner's present age, and the aunt died at the Danville asylum. He corroborated the testimony of Samuel Jones regarding the insanity of some of his son's maternal ancestry. He then, together with his wife and Mrs. McWilliams, a daughter, and his eldest son, Hunter Laporte, traced Jack's movements throughout the day after Irwin was killed.

This afternoon C. S. Keagle, a shop keeper of Tyrone, in whose employ Jack Laporte had been from 1881 to 1883, and ten intimate friends from Tyrone and Franklinvilla, related a number of instances of strange conduct on the part ot the prisoner. Keagle swore that Jack would frequently laugh outright without any apparent cause when he thought himself to be alone, and would sometimes become abstracted and oblivious to everything surrounding him. W. L. Pasco, a young attorney of Tyrone, rehearsed several incidents showing that Jack would have no knowledge of things which happened to him during periods of intoxication. A little drink, he said, made Jack jolly, but a greater amount rendered him irritable.

The Empire State.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Chairman Warren, of the state Republican committee, called the convention to order, and Rev. D. Leech, of Allegheny, invoked divine blessing. After roll call Chairman Warren announced that the state committee had agreed upon Senator Warner Miller for temporary chairman.

Senator Miller made an eloquent speech.

Committee on permanent organization reported for permanent chairman Hon. James W. Husted, and a list of secretaries and vice presidents. The report was adopted amid great applause. General Husted took the chair. He thanked the convention for the honor conferred upon him.

At the conclusion of his speech the convention proceeded to the nomination of candidates for governor. The names of the candidates were presented in complimentary and eloquent terms and were all received with demonstrations of approval.

Mr. Fassett moved that one ballot be taken and an adjournment then had until morning. This was lost by strong dissenting viva voce vote. A motion to proceed a ballot for governor was then adopted and the roll was called by districts, with the following result: Davenport 105, Morton 42, Swinburne 32, Warren 138, Bliss 53, Evarts 1, Charles Andrews 1, Carr 20, Seward 57, Low 16, Drexel 37, Cornell 4, Starin 1. Whole number of votes cast 691; necessary for a choice, 346. At the conclusion of the first ballot the convention at 8.30 p. m. adjourned until to-morrow.

A Serious Freight Wreck.

IRWIN, Pa., September 21.—By the breaking of a wheel, ten box cars of a freight train, drawn by engine No. 384, were thrown into the creek over a high embankment at the west end of Manor station, on the middle siding, early this morning. A brakeman was hurt in the leg, and a tramp stealing a ride was cut about the face. The track was torn up for some distance, and all west bound trains were run on the south track.

About 9 o'clock a ten year old boy named James Stoddert, fell from the platform at the freight station to the track below, striking his face upon a rail, and cutting a terrible gash across the bridge of his nose. His injuries, which are painful but not dangerous were attended to by the company's surgeon.

Consecrated as Bishop.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The consecration of Rev. Jeremiah O'Sullivan, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church of this city as bishop of the diocese of Mobile, Ala., took place at the church to-day. The ceremony of concrating a bishop usually takes place in the cathedral, but at the urgent request of Father O'Sullivan, the archbishop consented to perform the ceremony at the church of the bishop elect in the presence of his congregation. Therefore the same ceremony which for more than 1,800 years has at intervals been performed in various parts of the world was to-day performed for the first time at the capital of the nation and in a little unpretentious church on Capital Hill.

Sharp Shooting at Creedmore.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The Hilton trophy, worth $3,000, was to-day shot for at Creedmore by the three teams of twelve men each, the U. S. Regular Army teams, and the New York and Pennsylvania State teams. The shooting was at 200, 500 and 600 yards, seven shots at each distance. The Regulars won, with 997 out of a possible 1260 points; the New York State team 968, and the Pennsylvania State team 957. The Wimbledon cup match will be shot to-morrow—distance, 1,000 yards. The continuous matches will be concluded on Thursday.

A Great Revival in Indiana.

MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 22.—Mrs. Woodworth, the evangelist, closed a two weeks' meeting in a grove twelve miles northwest of this city yesterday, preaching to 35,000 people. Such religious excitement was never known here. The woods rang with the shouts of the new converts, while here and there lay men and women in trances, apparently dead. Hundreds of people from the city attended her meetings and are unable to account for what they saw.

He Helped Capture Jefferson Davis.

DETROIT, Mich., September 19.—A special to the News announces the death at Flint, Michigan, to-day of Dr. George Whitfield Fish, formerly United States consul at Ningpo, China, and Tunis. He was one of the party of Fourth Michigan Cavalrymen who captured Jeff Davis near Irwinsville, Ga. He was seventy years of age.

Hickory Splinter in His Eye 21 Years.

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 21.—George W. Lovejoy, a veteran of the war, has been deprived of the use of his right eye for 21 years. While firing a salute at Seaside Park a premature discharge of the cannon shattered his right arm and injured the eye. Yesterday F. M. Wilson, the occulist here, who studied with Dr. Agnew of New York, performed a most skillful operation on Lovejoy's eye. He removed from the ball a piece of hickory ramrod which was blown into the eye 21 years ago. The piece is almost an inch in length and over an eighth of an inch in diameter. Mr. Lovejoy is in consequence relieved from pain, which he has suffered almost constantly since the accident. He was not aware of the existence of the splinter until it was removed.

Failure of an Iron Company.

HARRISONBURG, Va., Sept. 21.—The Shenandoah Iron Company at Milnes has defaulted on the payment of some of its indebtedness, and a bill was filed in the Circuit Court of the United States to-day asking for an injunction and a receiver. The parties to this action are the Seventh National Bank, the Union Trust, Safe Deposit and Insurance Company, the Eighth National Bank, and John Milnes, all of Philadelphia. The liabilities of the company are about $900,000, of which $500,000 is first mortgage bonds. The remainder is floating indebtedness. The injunction and receiver are asked for by the creditors representing the floating debt.

Great Frauds.

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—A number of gigantic frauds were brought to light to-day in the Canadian Pacific offices, in connection with the measurements of several of the contracts on Lake Superior section. It has been found that many of the contractors have been overpaid to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars. It is believed that criminal and civil proceedings will be instituted against some of the contractors and engineers, alleging conspiracy. The whole loss will amount to $5,000,000, one contractor alone having been paid over $100,000 in excess of the proper measurements.

A Soldier Killed.

HUNTINGDON, September 21.—Ellis Cole, of Philadelphia, a passenger on day express east, was killed at bridge No. 7 at Spruce Creek, this county, this afternoon. He was standing on the platform or steps of the car and was in some manner thrown off. His body was brought to Huntingdon and prepared for burial and his people in Philadelphia notified. He was honorably discharged from the regular army in Dakota on last Monday and was on his way home when he was killed.

Mobbed Again.

SEATTLE, Washington Territory, Sept. 22.—A body of masked men visited the quarters of the Chinese workmen at Black Diamond mine, Sunday night. The Chinese fled, and the houses were burned. The Chinamen had been discharged from the mines and expected to go to Seattle yesterday. A convention of delegates from all parts of the Puget Sound country has been called to meet here September 28th to devise means of ridding the country of Chinese.

Some Figures for Study.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 22.—At a session of the cigarmakers' union to-day a report of the president showed that during the last two years it has cost the union over $210,000 to support members during strikes and lockouts of which there have been 152. 69 of these strikes have been successful, sixty-nine unsuccessful, three have been compromised and others are still in progress. These strikes affected 3,152 men.

Forney's "Progress" Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—It is announced that with the number of Sept. 12 the issue of Forney's Progress has ceased forever. Mr. John W. Forney, the editor, said to-day that the stoppage was not a temporary suspension nor anything else but a permanent cessation of publication. His reason for discontinuing the publication was that it had ceased to pay.

Bliss Has the Lead.

SARATOGA, N. Y., September 21.—Delegates fairly swarmed into town on the afternoon trains and scenes about the hotel to-night are decidedly animated. There is no change in the situation from that indicated earlier in the day, except that Cornelius N. Bliss and Levi P. Morton have taken the lead, leaving Cornell a good third.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

—The moon at present riding in the heavens is known as the "Harvest moon." It differs from the moon at other seasons from the fact that there is less difference in the hour of rising and setting. For instance, in the Spring the moon may rise an hour and twenty minutes later one night than it did the preceding night. From now until about the 28th the moon will rise almost at the same time each night, thus prolonging her beauty. This is due to the path which the moon describes in the heavens, and can best be understood by students of astronomy. It contents us to know that it is one of the features of fall which makes it more beautiful than other seasons of the year.

In Memoriam.

On the 5th day of Sept., A. D. 1885, George Straub, of Benner township, this county, departed this life, aged 84 years, 9 months and 9 days, and his remains were accompanied by his neighbors and friends to the Union cemetery in Bellefonte, on Sunday following. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Chas. T. Steck, pastor of the Lutheran church at Bellefonte, of which church deceased was a faithful and consistent member to the day of his death.

Deceased was born the 26th of November, A. D. 1800, in Washington township, Union county, and moved to Centre county A. D. 1848. He was was married to Miss Lydia Heime, daughter of Matthew Heime, of Union county, on the 26th day of February, A. D. 1825, and to them were born seven sons and three daughters, as follows: John, Susan, William, George, Levi A., Henry, Edward, Lydia, Amelia, and Franklin, all of whom are living except Franklin, who died in infancy. By his thrift and industry he acquired considerable property, which by his last will and testament is divided equally among his surviving children.

Thus having lived beyond the alloted three score years and ten, like the sheaf of wheat on his coffin, he was ripe for the Reaper.

—The other important local events which demanded our attention Friday precluded the possibility of noticing the large and successful picnic, or reunion, held by the Patrons of Husbandry of Centre county, on top of Nittany mountain, on Thursday. This order is very strong in Centre county and is calculated to be highly beneficial and popular. The picnic was the twelfth held by the Patrons and the lovely weather aided in making it the most successful, there being a large array of prominent Patrons and, in all, about 6,000 people, makthe road leading in each direction from the mountain top an almost unbroken line of buggies, carriages and wagons. Four bands of music were present, viz., the McClintic Band, of Nittany Valley, Clinton Co., the Troxelville Band, of Troxelville, Snyder Co. and the Farmer's Mills and Tusseyville bands, of this county. Politicians and pretty girls were plenty and both wore their most winning smiles. Col. James F. Weaver, of Milesburg, Master of the County Grange, delivered the address of welcome. Addresses were made by ex-Gov. A. G. Curtin, Leonard Rhone, of Potter township, Master of Pennsylvania State Grange, and Mr. Isaac Frain, of Marion township. So enthusiastic were the Patrons over the success of the event that we understand that arrangements were made to hold a three days' picnic next year.

—A delightful musical feast was given the people of Bellefonte in Humes' Hall on Friday evening. That thoroughly excellent organization, the Bellefonte Orchestra, appeared in concert with several of Bellefonte's most charming lady vocalists to aid in giving variety to the entertainment. It is always with engrossing interest and enjoyment that the renditions of the orchestra are listened to and it surpassed itself Friday night. The enchanting melody and perfect time of every instrument was marvelous. The selections given were varied, incinding the most difficult compositions. Miss S. Ohmmacht at the piano performed with exquisite skill. The vocalists were Mrs. T. R. Hayes, and the Misses Chestie Crape, Victorine Lyon, Mary Bradley and Emily Harris. Miss Bradley's sweet voice and charming manners as she rendered "Pretty Primrose" scored the first encore of evening. Miss Victorine Lyon rendered to solos. Her voice is clear and beautiful and shows very careful cultivation. Her second solo, "A Serenade," was encored. Mrs. Hayes sang twice, once in a solo and again in a duet with Miss Crape. Both of these selections were thoroughly enjoyable. Miss Emily Harris rendered a particularly lovely solo in a charming manner, and was very enthusiastically applauded. Miss Weaver played the accompaniments to some of the vocal selections.

—Harry Schruders, an employe of the Centre Mining Co., at the Byron ore mines, Pennsylvania Furnace, met a severe accident on Tuesday, the 15th. While loading cars on the "deep cut" the bank gave way catching him and breaking one of his legs in three places. It is also feared that he received severe internal injuries. Drs. G. W. Woods and T. C. VanTries were summoned and reduced the fracture. The patient is doing well. The above we learn from the Altoona Tribune.

—Altoona Times: "Among the popular and pleasant young lady visitors to our city may be named Miss Jennie Laughlin, of Bellefonte, who has been spending the past few weeks with her cousin, Miss Nellie Laughlin of 1815 Ninth avenue."

Another Day of the Murder Trial.

It is believed that if John LaPorte escapes conviction of murder in the first degree, or if acquitted on the plea of insanity, it will be largely because of the sympathy entertained for his aged and heart-broken parents. When his aged mother testified Tuesday many eyes were dim with tears.

Twenty-five witnesses arrived from Tyrone Tuesday, whose testimony will be offered by the Commonwealth in rebuttal. Among the witnesses examined were Mrs. John Ingram, of Spruce Creek, and John M. Wigton, of Franklinville, the latter of whom, who has known defendant all his life, has frequently noticed him to walk aimlesly about for hours. One of his peculiarities was to wear his working clothes on Sunday and on Monday to dress himself in his best suit. From witness' knowledge of LaPorte's peculiar behavior he considered him of unsound mind.

Five or six witnesses were then examined, among whom R. M. Test, of Philipsburg, said that he had frequently been in the prisoner's company, and remembered of hearing him once remark: "A man in this world had better be dead than living, as there is nothing to live for. Everybody is against me and I am an offcast."

The defense will close this morning when the evidence in rebuttal will be taken up by the Commonwealth.

The arguments of counsel, it is thought, will be made on Thursday.

—This paper has been requested to call the attention of authorities to a practice which is permitted to continue unrestrained in this section and which frequently works great harm. It is the practice of permitting individuals, who are deformed in a way as to make them absolutely frightful, to go from house to house selling their wares, and at times doing great harm. There is one individual in particular, who from motives of compassion we shall not name, but whose entire person, especially his face, is hideously deformed, who goes about peddling notions. Two deaths are believed to have been occasioned by fright caused by this man appearing suddenly. The latest was the case of a lady in Boggs township who was in a delicate condition. The man appeared at her door, frightening her into an illness which caused great suffering and the death of herself and her infant only a few days ago. We have seen this man and have ourselves shuddered at his deformity. We believe the authorities should compell him to remain at home, or, at least, only to circulate among those who know him well.

—All who read the announcement of the death of Wm. Laurie, Jr., son of Rev. William Laurie, the pastor of the Presbyterian church of this place, will be profoundly impressed. The young man died at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning, of consumption, of which he had been a sufferer for a year or longer. We have not seen much of him of late, as for several years he has been engaged in business in Philipsburg, but we remember him as the personification of all that is handsome and graceful. He was popular with all who were so fortunate as to know him. That he was naturally intelligent and apt in whatever he devoted himself is shown by the fact that, although yet quite young, he has filled responsible positions. He married Miss Crissman, of Philipsburg, about one year ago. To benefit his health he journeyed south last Spring, but improvement, if any, was but temporary. About a month ago he came with his young wife to his father's home here, and gradually grew worse until his death Monday morning.

The Skating Rink.

The Crescent Skating Club will open the roller rink this (Thursday) evening, for the season. For this event the skates have been repaired in a first-class manner and are now in elegant condition. New rollers and new springs have been put on all of them. The skating club will give a grand march and introduce a variety of new features which will please all.

The Rink opens with promise of success this fall. Mr. Will Pearlstein, recently clerk in Garman's store, will have the management of it and will do everything that can be done to render it inviting and popular. All lovers of skating and those who desire to witness the sport should be present.

—Altoona was visited by a disastrous conflagration on Sunday morning. The lumber mill owned by Mr. Fries, and also a house belonging to the same gentleman, three houses owned by the heirs of Michael O'Neil, dec'd, and a dwelling house owned by Mrs. Maggie Detwiler were destroyed. The origin of the fire was incendiary. The loss was about $38,000; insurance about $15,000.

—A most enjoyable game of tennis was played on Saturday afternoon on the lawn near the home of Miss Annie Valentine. The number of spectators was very large and thoroughly enjoyed the skilful plays made by the four contestants. The gentlemen who participated in the game are considered to be the best players of Huntingdon and this section, respectively, Messrs. Brown and Petriken representing Huntingdon, and Messrs. James and Sam Hamill representing Centre county. The three scores were all in favor of the Messrs. Hamill and we append them as follows: First score, 6 to 5; second, 6 to 1; third, 6 to 5. We congratulate "our side" on the result and advise Huntingdon to practice a little before playing the next game.

—We notice in the Fremont Herald, that harvest home services were held in St. James Episcopal church, Fremont, Neb., of which Rev. John Hewitt is rector, on Sunday, the 13th. The decorations of fruits and flowers were most elaborate and pleasing and the musical programme was on a scale of similar magnificence. All was conducted under the supervision of Rev. Mr. Hewitt, whose taste in arranging such services never fails.

—Mr. Thomas McCann of Snow Shoe and his mother accompanied Messrs James and Michael McCann to Cleveland, where their son and brother is lying dangerously ill. The telegram didn't state what was the nature of Owen's illness, but was evident by the tone of it that no hopes were entertained of his recovery. We hope however that his life may be spared.—Altoona Times.

—We are indeed sorry to know that the annoying condition of Rev. G. D. Pennepacker's throat, the earnest and zealous pastor of the First Methodist church, of this city, will, if relief is not soon obtained, enforce him to suspend preaching for a time, at least. The advice of his physician is that he should not preach.—Altoona Independent.

—Farmers should be on the lookout for a fraud now traveling around the country selling corn shellers to those he can persuade to buy, taking their notes for the same. The notes are afterwards changed to correspond to the number of shellers the fellow may see fit to ship.

—People frequently wonder why Centre county cannot have agricultural fairs as well as other counties.

How a Baby Boy was Killed.

All of our readers were shocked by the information first published in the Daily News of Thursday, the 10th, which told of the violent death of a baby boy on the previous afternoon at Snow Shoe Intersection, and will therefore read with sentiments of sympathy the following which was written by one who felt keenly the sad event:

IDDINGS.—On Wednesday afternoon, September the 9th at 2:30 o'clock, Edward Loyd Iddings was killed, aged 1 year and 8 months.

The funeral services over the remains of little Loyd took place on Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock, at the home of his parents in Union township. Oh, how sad it was to go into the house and see the lifeless body of our baby boy that we loved so dearly, loved by all who knew him.

Hismamma was washing clothes at the time and he had been playing near her. His father came for a drink and Loyd, seeing him, followed him around the house. Then Loyd wandered on out to the gate. He doubtless saw his grandpa going towards the cornfield and followed him, for he loved both his father and grandpa. Then I heard the shrill whistle of the locomotive. I left my work and ran to see what was the matter. At first I saw nothing of Loyd and afterwards saw his lifeless body lying between the ties. No one was near. I picked him up and carried him into the house. His head and right arm were severed from the body and his left arm broken.

This dreadful accident was not the result of neglect. Mrs. Iddings is a careful woman, and very particular about the children. Somebody had left the gate open, and little Loyd was gone just long enough to reach the track. He got down on his hands and knees to crawl across the rails, and just as he was getting on the last rail the engine (No. 75) killed him and the whole train passed over him.

The parents are almost crazed by their loss. To Mrs. Iddings, who always gave so much attention to her little boy and girl (the latter five years old), the shock is severe. Her little one was unusually intelligent for a mere infant. He was learning to talk and could call all his relatives by name. He was also active on his feet as one can tell by the distance from the house to the railroad track. He must have run to have reached it so soon. A FRIEND.

It is well, dear Loyd, that thou didst go
To the redeemed before the throne;
Thy young spirit, white as driven snow,
To its home in the skies has flown.

Thy body lies mouldering 'neath the sod;
While upward to the realms of light—
The path thy little feet have trod—
Is made for us exceeding bright.

Pray for us, dear Loyd, that we may press
Onward to heavenly mansions so fair;
That our love for earth may ever be less
While we ever strive to meet thee there.

The Journal thinks Philipsburg should have a market-house. We are of the same opinion. The number of hucksters daily seen on our streets is good evidence that an institution of this kind would pay.

Stormstown Siftings.

STORMSTOWN, Sept. 18, 1885.

The recent rains have thrown the farmers back with their work. It gives grain to sow, fall apples to gather, cider to make and corn to cut off.

A sad accident occurred at the Juniata Mines this week in which a Hungarian lost his life by the bank falling in on him, killing him instantly. He had been frequently warned by the boss and his fellow workmen but did not heed. A fact which renders it more sad, is that he left a wife and five children who live far across the deep waters of the ocean. He was given a decent burial by James Pierpoint, superintendent.

Religious services were held at the house by Rev. Whitney, of the M. E. church of this place. His remains were interred at Gray's graveyard at Gray's church.

Christopher Harpster, of Gatesburg, met with an accident which might have resulted in his death. He had been engaged in chopping down some trees, when, going from one tree to another, his feet became entangled in some brush which threw him down His axe falling first, he fell on it with his knee and neck. Had he struck a little harder he would have cut the jugular vein, causing death.

Miss Martha Gates, of Gatesburg, was the victim of a joke which has proved a serious one. While out one day gathering berries in a field near a pool of water, a couple of her female neighbors slipped up quietly and threw a stone, expecting it to strike in the pool and frighten her. Unfortunately, the stone struck her on the ankle, injuring it so seriously as to prevent her walking for some time to come—a woman either misses what she tries to hit or hits what she tries to miss.

Hay Fever Cured by Cream Balm.

I have been a periodical sufferer from Hay Fever since the summer of 1879, and, until I used Ely's Cream Balm, I was never able to find any relief. I can say that Cream Balm cured me.—L. M. Georgia, Binghamton, N. Y. 17-35-4t.

Here, There, Everywhere,

Malaria is found. Even where the disease is not prevalent—where the general condition of the surrounding locality may be favorable to health, isolated cases may exist. Bad drainage, a damp cellar, the escape of sewer gas, the existence of masked cess pools, proximity to stagnant water—all these are frequent causes, and what town or city of any magnitude is free from them. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, whether in town or country, whether the germs of the disease develop either the bilious remittent or the intermittent form, or that negative, sluggish, but not less obstinate type called dumb ague, is equally efficient, both as a preventive and a remedy. Bad digestion; biliousness, constipation, a want of vitality, are also remedied by it, and the happiest results may be surely anticipated from its use, for the relief of rheumatism, kidney and bladder complaints, and nervousness, accompanied by a lack of appetite and sound repose It is botanic and agreeable.

Health—Strength—Long Life

SECURED BY THE USE OF

Crosby's Vitalized Phos-phites;

Nature's own BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD.

This preparation is one of the greatest triumphs of modern chemical science. It is at the same time a remedial agent, and a natural food. It restores exhausted and wasted functions of the brain and nerves, and its daily use, while in health will prevent such exhaustion and waste. This is the only preparation of Phosphorous that has received the approbation of the entire medical profession in this country and in Europe,

Over a MILLION PACKAGES have been prescribed by Physicians in the United States.

SETIHP-SOH PHOS-PHITES

CROSBY'S Vitalized Phosphites

Is a phosphoid or nerve-giving principle extracted from the ox brain and and wheat germ. It does not contain any of the animal substance of the brain, but the phosphoric principles dissolved in boiling alcohol and filtered from the brain substance. It is passed through felt filters, carefully dried and mixed with a little oven-dried flour from the germ of the wheat. Ephraim Cutter, A. M., M. D., in his microscopic analysis, testifies that it contains none of the substance of the ox brain; the active phosphites only are present.

By a careful and elaborate chemical analysis made by Prof. Percy, it was proved to be composed of the vital and nerve-giving principles of animal and vegetable life. The brains of animals and of fish contain an oily, nitrogenous hypo-phosphite, which, when separated from the fleshy part of the brain, is found to be a nerve-sustaining principle of animal life. It is entirely different in its effects from any compound made by chemists in the laboratory; the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE contains in the highest degree this life-sustaining power; it requires no preparation or change in the stomach, but is in condition to be immediately assimilated into the blood, and ready for appropriation by the brain and nerves; it is essentially a special Brain and Nerve Food. Nature, not art, has prepared it for immediate assimilation.

In many forms of disease the digestion is so imperfect that chemical compounds, or even food, is not digested well enough to be assimilated and changed into blood. This VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE needs no digestion, it is assimilated at once, because it is in the exact condition found in all nervous structure, and is deposited in the nerve structure in the same condition as it was taken from it.

WHY HAVE PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBED OVER HALF A MILLION PACKAGES OF VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES

And found this Brain and Nerve Food indispensible in the treatment of all diseases of debility, and in all mental or nervous disorders?

Because it is not a secret remedy; they know what they are prescribing; the formula is on every package. Because it is one of those perfect preparations that seldom disappoint them.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Feb. 16, 1882.

I have prescribed your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES extensively for the past seven years. I have found it invaluable in the treatment of debility, in diseases of the nervous system, and as a Tonic where the vital forces were at a low ebb. E. W. FISCH, M. D.

LANDON B. EDWARDS, M. D., Editor of the Virginia Medical Monthly says: "I have prescribed VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES in several instances, and have also induced friends to use it. Our successes will make us prescribe it frequently."

AM. MEDICINE CO., 264 Greene St., N. Y.

Some three years ago my friend DR. STEARNS, Superintendent of the Insane Asylum in Hartford, told me how highly he prized VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES, and advised me to use the remedy with my many friends suffering with overwork of the brain. Knowing that I was one of the "overworked," I made the first trial on myself. The change in my health within two months after taking it was so satisfactory that I continue its use from time to time whenever I need it. I have not had a severe headache since I began its use; it was my great trouble before. I have prescribed it for very many of my friends—young, middle-aged and old—and in every case with benefit. You have given me a Brain Food in the only condition in which it can be constantly taken without danger. Many medical men whom I have induced to use it on themselves now use it regularly in their practice. S. GWINN, M. D.

GARRETTSVILLE, Ohio, June 28, 1882.

F. CROSBY Co.,

Gentlemen: Several years ago when suffering from congestion of the vessels at the base of the brain, resulting in terrible mental depression, Dr. Leonard Sanford, of the Yale Medical College, prescribed for me the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES. The effect was excellent, beyond all expectation; in two weeks I was a new man. Since my recovery I have recommended it to a number of my professional and other friends suffering from overwork, brain exhaustion, sleeplessness, spinal and nervous troubles and kindred complaints, and in many of these instances I have seen its good results. I have intended for some time to write to you in acknowledgement of the good effects, but I suppose you are overcrowded with letters of this sort.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio.

F. CROSBY: I have prescribed over 700 bottles of your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE, and know it to be of the greatest value in restoring lost energy, relieving debility, nervousness, and preventing consumption.

Pittsburg Short of Nails.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 17.—A nail dealer says that the supply of nails in this city is smaller than it has been for twenty years, and is virtually exhausted. This week he could not fill an order for twenty kegs of ordinary-sized nails. The customer tried in vain every place where they handle nails in the city. A Cleveland firm finally scraped enough nails together to fill the order.

There are five manufacturing places of nails in this vicinity, and twice that number of firms who make a specialty of handling nails, yet, all combined, they could not fill an order for a country store for a car load of 200 kegs. There is and has been a good, steady call for nails all Summer. There has been considerable building in this vicinity, and especially in the oil towns of surrounding counties. Pittsburg nails have until lately supplied that demand. When the strike of the nailers began at the 1st of June, nearly every firm dealing in nails had a stock in warehouse.

Eastern firms, the dealer declares, have entered Pittsburg's natural market and are slowly taking away its customers. Nearly every nail mill West of the Alleghenies is as idle to-day as it was the first day of the strike in June. He added that he saw no prospect of a change. Both sides seem as determined now as at the beginning of the strike.

Gen. Grant's Niece Married.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Mayor Grace is out of town, and so Alderman Sanger, who is the acting Mayor, had the honor of marrying a rather remarkable couple to-day. The bride was Miss Claire Virginia Cramer, a niece of Gen. U. S. Grant. The groom was Alphonze Bernhardt. Jessie Seligman, L. Kaytor, S. S. Steinhart and A. L. Gralifelder accompanied the party. The bride appeared to be about 30 years of age. She wore a blue brocaded silk velvet dress and a dark brown sailor hat. She was tall and comely. The groom was dressed in plain broadcloth. The bride is the daughter of Miachael J. Cramer. Her mother was General Grant's sister. Mr. Cramer is now a professor of theology in the Boston University. The parties were married in the morning at Elizabeth, N. J., by the Rev. Mr. Price. The object of the second or civil marriage was to comply with the views of the groom, who is a Parisian. The bride's father was at one time United States Consul at Denmark and later Consul at Berne, Switzerland. The parties to the wedding contract became acquainted on the continent and will make their bridal tour in Europe. The groom is a Parisian journalist.

Jumbo, the Great Elephant, Killed.

ST. THOMAS, Ont. Sept. 16.—About 9 o'clock last night, as Barnum's $300,000 elephant, Jumbo, and the little trick elephant, Tom Thumb, were being led along the track by the keeper, on the way from the show grounds to the car to be loaded, an incoming freight train came upon them unexpectedly and caught and killed Jumbo and broke one of Tom Thumb's legs. There was a side track on the north of the main track which contained all of Barnum's empty cars, and on either side there was an embankment eight feet high.

When the keeper saw the train coming he tried to get Jumbo down the south bank but Jumbo, seeing no danger, refused. He then tried to get him between the side track and main line, but only partially succeeded the locomotive striking him in the right side and crowding him against the cars on the siding. The great beast was carried with the engine about one hundred yards. He was so tightly wedged that when he could be carried no further his body crowded the locomotive to the south side, throwing it off the track. He lived thirty minutes.

The Genesta Wins a Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The English cutter Genesta retrieved herself by winning the regatta given under the auspices of the New York Yacht club near Sandy Hook to-day. It was the annual race of the club and the prizes consisted of two cups, one given by James G. Bennett for schooners and the other by W. P. Douglass for cutters or sloops. There were eleven entries. The schooners were the Fortune, Grayling and Dauntless. The cutters were Genesta, Heen, Strander, Clara and Isis. The centre board sloops consisted of the Grassie, Athlon and Daphne. The course was a triangular one of thirty-eight miles. The start was made at 11.11. The Genesta forged ahead soon after the start and after the first five miles it became evident that she would win. She steadily walked away from her competitors and on the homestretch she came scudding like a duck and crossed the line at 3.41, just twelve minutes ahead of the Grayling, which was second. The Bennett prize was awarded to the Grayling and the Douglass prize to the Genesta.

The Huntingdon Car Works.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Sept. 18.—The Huntingdon Car and Car Wheel works, lately owned by Blain Brothers, were sold at Sheriff's sale this afternoon, to Col. William Dorris, trustee for the bondholders, for $7,000. The works are computed to be worth $80,000. The bonded debt is $35,000. The bondholders therefore in effect bid $42,000. The intention of the purchasers is to protect themselves and dispose of the works advantageously to other parties.

From Clearfield.

Special to the Altoona Tribune.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Sept. 16.—John Dorritt, a butcher living a short distance south of the Clearfield borough line, committed suicide Tuesday evening by taking laudanum. He declared that he was tired of life and meant to die, and then deliberately and in the presence of his wife and family, swallowed the fatal drug. No cause is assigned for the rash act other than that he had come to the conclusion that life is not worth living and had fully made up his mind to die. He leaves a large family in very poor circumstances.

Wolf, the man who shot McGowan at Houtzdale, was visited by a Tribune representative to-day in the jail here, but he refused to talk about the sad tragedy in which he was a principal until after he has consulted his counsel. Some of the citizens of Philipsburg and vicinity say that McGowan was a young man of questionable reputation, belonging to a hard crowd, and they are not much surprised at his violent end.

The sad death of B. L. Wallace created general sorrow here. The funeral services began at 2 o'clock this afternoon and concluded at 3. They were of a solemn and impreisive character. The arches across the streets, which had been erected for the Grand Army re-union and were still standing, were draped in mourning, as were also the bank building and the Young Men's democratic club room. Many of the business houses were closed during the funeral and the court adjourned from 2 o'clock until 5. Senator Peale and other prominent men were present, as well as many personal friends of the deceased from a distance. Over five hundred persons viewed the remains as they lay in the eastern end of Senator Wallace's residence. The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in Clearfield.

America Keeps the Cup.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The Puritan beat the Genesta to-day over the forty mile course, from Scotland lightship, twenty miles, to leeward and return, by two minutes, nine seconds actual time, or one minute, thirty-eight seconds corrected time. The race was said by the oldest yachtsmen to be the best and most closely contested ever seen in the world. The wind was moderate, from W., N. W., at the start. As the yachts ran dead before the outer mark it increased, and before they had sailed half the windward work returning, it was blowing half a gale from N., N. W., with quite a lumpy sea.

The start was made at 11.04. The Genesta took the lead and held a slight advantage for over two hours, passing the outer stake boat two minutes and six seconds ahead of the Puritan. The Puritan made a wide turn, which placed her further behind. Now commenced a grand struggle for the finish, twenty miles to windward. On they came at a rapid rate of speed, each vessel taking every advantage possible by change of sails and tacking to gain a point of distance on the other. The Genesta maintained her speed until about one hour after they had rounded the stake boat, the Puritan meanwhile gaining steadily, and finally showing in front of the English cutter. On they flew, almost neck and neck at times, and all who witnessed the struggle knew that the finish would be a close one. The Puritan kept her lead, however, and finally crossed the line a winner at 4.09, a quarter of a mile ahead of the Genesta, the latter reaching the finish at 4.10:15.

The Small-pox Spreading.

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—Dr. McNerce, assistant health officer, was informed yesterday that there was a case of small-pox in an eating house. On proceeding thither with an officer the occupants would not allow him to enter. He forced an entrance and saw six men eating, and in a room adjoining found a lad down with a bad case of small-pox. The boy was removed to a hospital and the doctor discovered that the boy's father was sitting on a jury in the court of queen's bench in a murder trial. Going to the court he exposed the man and the judge discharged the jury. The sheriff discharged the man from further attendance. The court adjourned and the health officers disinfected it. A larger number of cases than those authenticated occur daily. According to the returns at the health office to-day there were thirty-five deaths from the disease yesterday.

Grant Services at Honolulu.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Hon. George W. Merrill, minister resident at the Sandwhich Islands, has sent to the Secretary of State a report of the memorial services held in Fort Street Church, Honolulo, on the 13th of August, in honor of General Grant. The proceedings were under charge of a committee of American citizens, but the entire population of the city manifested its sympathy. The King and Queen and members of the royal family, the Cabinet and other Government officials and the representatives of foreign powers were present at the services. Flags were displayed at half mast on the Government buildings and business was closed for the day. The proceedings consisted of eulogistic addresses and music, vocal and instrumental.

Riel Expects a Special Providence.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 15.—Governor Dewdney is authority for the statement that Riel will be respited. The belief is general that there will be a respite. Riel is taking things coolly. He appears to have no idea that he will hang and is defiant and unrepentant. He marches about with the air of some great man. He thinks that he cannot hang. The rope may be placed around his neck, but he thinks before the awful moment arrives a divine interposition will surely save him. His biography cannot be finished before next Friday. He is constantly praying for a miraculous turn of events, which he will doubtless find in a reprieve.

Probably Got the Right Man.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 18.—During June and July last this city was excited by constant succession of incendiary fires. Rewards were offered by city councils, special night patrolmen were employed and every effort made to detect the fire bugs. A number of suspected parties were discharged for want of evidence. Finally Charles Weiderbald, a young shoemaker, who had always born a good character, was arrested, charged with setting fire to a stable on the night of July 26. His trial commenced on Tuesday and ended to-day, the jury rendering a verdict of guilty. Sentence was deferred, pending a motion for a new trial. It is now the general opinion that Weiderbald was the author of all the fires and that he had no other motive than a mania for witnessing conflagrations.

Mr. Hendricks Worried.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—Vice-President Hendricks was called upon, at the banquet tendered the Mexican Veterans to-night, to respond to the toast, "the President, the worthy magistrate of this great republic."

No subject could have been more distasteful to him, and his embarrassment was quite apparent. He struggled through a ten minutes' talk, in which he dwelt in a very uninteresting way, upon the duties imposed upon the President by the Constitution and the powers that he may exercise, as if trying to convince his hearers that there was really some authority for the existence of a president. Only once in the course of his remarks did Mr. Hendricks mention the name of President Cleveland or allude to him personally.

Victims of Italy's Ambition.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Private advices from Massowah, in the Southeastern corner of the Soudan, give a terrible account of the Italian military expedition lately established there. The heat is fearful, the night temperature frequently rising to 122.° In the daytime any approach to comfort is impossible and existence is intolerable. Officers and men go about naked, and more than half of them are always in the hospital. Sunstrokes are of daily occurrence, and there is hardly a member of the expedition who is not worn out mentally and physically. Insanity is common, and no less than five of the officers and many of the men have committed suicide.

The One Hundred Thousandth.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 17.—The celebration of the sale of the one hundred thousandth hogshead of tobacco in Louisville to-day was a grand success in every respect and the city witnessed the grandest industrial and commercial parade ever held in the south. Though the various commercial interests were represented the tobacco interest was given the post of honor, and their displays occupied three miles out of a procession of eight miles. The streets were crowded from early morn and, it being a holiday, the city was handsomely and elaborately decorated. Fully 50,000 visitors witnessed the procession.

Mexico's Fourth of July.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 16.—The celebration of Mexican independence was begun last evening by special services at the National Theater, President Diaz presiding. A brilliant assemblage of military officers, foreign Ministers and the elite of the city were present. To-day there was a grand procession of infantry, artillery, cavalry and civic societies, 20,000 persons being in line. The city is beautifully decorated, American residents displaying their national colors blended with those of Mexico. General Grant's portrait and those of Juarez and Hidalgo are prominently displayed. The city is splendidly decorated to-night.

British Iron Industry.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The iron industry of Gloucestershire, which has been almost paralyzed in sympathy with the general depression in trade, is now reviving. The men are working on full time, and many extra furnaces which have been idle for months are relit. The business is caused chiefly by foreign orders. It is hoped and believed that the turning point has been reached, and that the terrible distress which has prevailed throughout the coal and iron producing districts is about to be followed by an era of prosperity.

State Firemen's Convention.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 17.—The State Firemen's association held its final session to-day. Among the matters of general importance discussed were propositions to have a law passed at the next session of legislature to exempt volunteer firemen from jury duty and to have firemen look after the enforcement of the law requiring the erection of fire escapes on factories and like buildings. The convention adjourned sine die to meet at Altoona next year.

An Aeronaut's Probable Death.

MONMOUTH, Sept. 17.—A huge balloon impaled itself upon the spire of the Catholic church this afternoon and was dragged to the ground. The basket was empty, barring a torn shirt-sleeve, a cuff and some branches of oak, indicating a collision with tree-tops, and the possible death of an aeronaut.

A Physician's Testimony.

In the treatment of lung and bronchial diseases, the liver is often implicated to such an extent that a hepatic remedy becomes necessary in effecting a cure of the lungs. In the treatment of such cases I prescribe Simmons Liver Regulator with entire satisfaction. I find that it acts mildly but effectually in regulating the secretions of the liver, stomach and bowels.

Small Mediterranean oysters, considered by gourmands as the most delicate of all bivalves, are now canned for exportation from Italy.

In August, 1878, C. A. Wood & Co. commenced the manufacture, in Philadelphia, of the now well-known Philadelphia Singer Sewing Machines. At first they only made ten machines a week. Their business has steadily increased, until now they are probably the largest manufacturers of this style of machine in the United States. They do business on a liberal and just basis. They sell a three-drawer, drop leaf and cover machine for the low price of twenty dollars, including all the extra attachments, and warrant them for three years. They offer to send one to any responsible man or woman, to be tested in their own house two weeks before they pay one cent. This is certainly a fair proposition. They have found this way of doing business more satisfactory than to do as other companies do who charge forty to fifty dollars for machines, and pay agents twenty dollars apiece to sell them. We advise all in want of a machine to send for circular and testimonials. Address C. A. Wood & Co., North Tenth St., Phila., Pa. s8 3t

THE Democratic party in its national platform last year complained that under Republican rule the American flag had almost been swept off the high seas. But what policy has the Democratic Administration adopted? It has made war upon the American building and American commerce. It has deliberately and malevolently driven into bankruptcy the chief builder of the American commercial marine, the man who had furnished a hundred iron steamships for the country's foreign and coasting trade. It has arrayed itself against American steamship companies and withheld Congressional appropriations made for the foreign mail service. It has forced the withdrawal of the American flag from the South seas. It has antagonized every mercantile and manufacturing interest dependent upon the growth and prosperity of American commerce. This is the way in which a Democratic Administration "restores" the supremacy of the flag on the high seas!

"I never patronize Patent Medicines." Don't you? Why not? You patronize "patent" articles of a hundred varieties—why not patent medicines. "Because they are often worthless." True, but not always. Frequently they are the very best in the world, representing the widest experience. At least we know that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is one of these, and for all troubles of the blood, liver and urinary organs it stands on its merits, and not on advertising.

IT is stated that France has lost 15,000 men in the Tonquin campaign, and that her losses in money, including the cost of building forts, hospitals and frontier defences, were £43,000,000, while China's losses were 100,000 men and £38,000,000. Thus 115,000 lives have been sacrificed and over $400,000,000 in money have been wasted in a war for which there was no sufficient reason, and while China has suffered most, France has gained nothing but what the French call la gloire. It is an expensive article, but new taxes will have to be imposed to pay for it.

—Philipsburg contains a man whose ignorance is so dense as to be quite amusing. A few days ago he suffered with a sore arm, which he showed to a Doctor. The Doctor wrote a prescription and told the man to apply the solution prescribed to his arm. A day or two after this the Doctor met his patient and inquired about the arm. "It is getting along admirably," said the man. The man then removed the bandage and showed the Doctor his arm, and on the sore spot serenely rested the identical prescription given him by the M. D. This shows the efficacy of faith over medicine.

—An affecting incident in the trial of John Laporte, Jr., at Huntingdon, is thus told by the Altoona Tribune this morning: "At 10 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning the prisoner, John Laporte, Jr., was brought into court by Deputy Sheriff Garrettson, which was the signal to his father, Associate Judge Laporte, to vacate the judicial bench. Taking a seat beside his unfortunate son, who was seated just behind his counsel, Hon. R. M. Speer, Major Petrikin and M. M. McNeil, Esqs., the old gentleman's feelings almost overcame him and it was with difficulty he restrained his tears."

The Trial of John Laport for Murder.

Special Correspondence of the Daily News.

HUNTINGDON, PA., Sept. 16, '85.

MR. EDITOR: The one half of Warriors Mark township appears to be in attendance at Court here. The case of John La Porte, who is charged with the crime of murder in the first degree, is now the all absorbing topic of the town; and it accounts for the presence of so many of the citizens of Warriors Mark township. This cause was called this morning at the opening of the Court, and the opposing counsel expressed their readiness to proceed. The defendant was brought into Court by the Sheriff and at once became the centre of observation. He is a young man of exceedingly fine appearance, dresses in a becoming and fashionable suit, and is what the ladies would term a handsome man. To look at him one can only wonder why he should be even suspected of so grave an offense, and much more why he should be on trial for his life. His aged father, who, by the way, is an Associate Judge of this court, sits with the prisoner and his counsel and they present a spectacle that moves one to pity. The entire forenoon was consumed in selecting a jury, which was completed before adjournment. At 2 o'clock p. m. Court convened and the prosecuting attorney opened the case to the jury. He made an eloquent and able speech, which was indicative of strength on the part of the prosecution. On behalf of the Commonweath five witnesses have been called, and the result of the testimony thus far has been to establish sufficient evidence to take the case to the jury. Of course, so far, the evidence is circumstantial, but it remains to be seen what the prosecution may have in store. Up to this time the particular line of defense has not been foreshadowed, and the counsel for defendant are as reticent on this point as is the prosecuting attorney as to his further steps. The case will be tried on both sides with the utmost care and every point will be bitterly contested.

The Commonwealth is represented by George B. Orlady, while Messrs. Speer and Petrikin, & McNeil will take care of the prisoner. An interesting feature in to-day's proceeding was the introduction of expert testimony to establish that certain spots on the prisoner's clothing were stains of human blood. The first witness on this branch of the case was Prof. W. H. Herrick of the State College. He will be supported in this line by Prof. Frear of the same institution.

In these gentleman the College will find material upon which they can build a reputation for thorough work.

His Honor Judge Furst, of your town, holds the scales of justice with an even hand and his rulings are accepted as fair and impartial.

Strong Evidence Against John LaPorte.

HUNTINGDON, PA, Sept. 17, 1885.

The testimony in the case against John, or as he is commonly known, "Jack" LaPort, has developed the following facts: That on the 28th day of May, 1885, the accused and his alleged victim were together in the village of Warriors Mark, and were apparently on the most intimate and friendly terms. They were seen frequently together and were known to have indulged in strong drink together. Soon after nine o'clock on that fatal evening the lifeless body of the deceased was found by the side of a public road. There was evidence of a most brutal murder. The throat of the victim was cut from ear to ear, and his face and head were crushed with a heavy stone. Indications pointed strongly to Jack LaPorte as being the perpetrator of the most cruel deed, and he is to-day on trial for his life.

By the side of the body were found two pieces of a suspender, as well as the stone which was used by the murderer. Subsequently, at some distance away, a single-bladed knife was picked up.

In support of their theory the Commonwealth have introduced in evidence the knife, the stone, the parts of suspender found, as well as the remaining parts of the suspenders which belonged to the accused and which were delivered to the authorities by his mother or sister. Strange to say, the suspenders so delivered have the parts missing which were picked up at the scene of the tragedy, and there is no room to doubt that the parts were once united and belonged to Jack LaPorte. On the parts of suspenders there are evidences that an attempt was made by some one to remove something therefrom, There were several minute spots, however, introduced and these were subjected to various tests by experts who found them to be stains of human blood. These tests were made by Messrs. Herrick and Frear of the Pennsylvania State College, and Dr. Brumbaugh, of Huntingdon. Not only on the suspenders were there evidences of human blood, but also on the knife, although the tests as to the latter were not so satisfactory as those of the suspenders.

Somewhat of a sensation was produced in Court to-day when a witness by the name of Weaver was called. He lived only a few reds from the point where the foul deed was committed, and his testimony is all embodied in a few words. He said he was sitting at an open window a few minutes after nine o'clock when he heard two men swearing and wrangling. One of the men said: "By ——, I'll brain you." The other answered, "Oh, Jack, don't," when the first said "Yes, by ——!" Then he heard nothing more until about 9:35, when the deceased was discovered and an alarm given. This witness was subjected to a most searching cross-examination of almost three hours duration; but he wavered not from his testimony, and adhered to it with a pertinacity that carried conviction with his sincerity.

The defense will use every effort to break the force of his testimony, by impeaching his character for truth and veracity.

Notwitstanding the introduction of the cruel and bloody instruments of death in evidence, and the narrative of the horrible details connected with the crime, the accused shows no signs of emotion and appears stoically indifferent to his situation. To-day he seemed to be engrossed in the newspaper account of the Puritan's victory, and sat with closed eyes, apparently napping while the witness, Weaver, was on the stand. His aged and gray-haired father sits by his side deeply concerned for the safety of his erring son. The line of defense has not yet been made apparent and not a single idea has been gleaned as to the nature thereof.

The Penn'a State College has been placed in a better light before the people of this county, by the signal ability displayed by Prof. Herrick and Dr. Frear. They have impressed the fact upon the public that they are men of culture and high attainments, and it has been argued that if such men belong to the faculty of that institution, it is worthy of patronage.

A Graphic Letter from Huntingdon.

HUNTINGDON, Sept. 18, '85.

A perfect day has been succeeded by a perfect night, and all is peaceful at this point on the "Blue Juniata."

The entire day has been consumed in taking additional testimony, on the part of the Commonwealth, in the great case against John LaPorte.

The prisoner has gone to the prison seemingly unmoved, there have been examined a number of witnesses whose testimony has woven around the accused a chain of circumstances which seem not only perfect, but doubly sure. At vital points in the case, the Commonwealth has forged its chain doubly sure, and from that chain the prisoner cannot break away. Whatever his feelings, or whatever conflicts rage within him as he hears the horrible details of the crime, he lets no one see or know.

The scope of the whole evidence has been to substantiate the witness, Wm. Weaver, and it is barely possible for the defense to contradict him on any point, and particularly in his assertion that he heard the name "Jack" mentioned, as detailed in the conversation reported to the NEWS yesterday.

The Commonwealth have shown to-day that on May 28th last the accused and deceased, with another man by name of Jacob Harpster, went from Showberger's mines to Warriors Mark village; that they arrived there at 4 o'clock p. m. and left about 6, going towards the mines again; that some time between 7 and 8 o'clock Jack LaPorte and James Irvin returned to Warriors Mark and were seen there between 8 and 9 o'clock and that shortly after 9 they, in company, were on their way home, and at 9.15 they were seen by a number of witnesses at a point only sixty-one rods from the place where James Irvin was found dead, about 20 minutes later. There can be no mistake as to the force and sufficiency of the testimony, and Jack LaPorte, to-night, can pray for repentance to Him alone who is able to wash away crimson stains from the guilty soul. Hardly could his guilt be more thoroughly established if he were to proclaim himself guilty of the grave charge.

At this time the Commonwealth has not closed its testimony and what developments there may be in store we cannot say. The case is being tried ably, carefully and with a degree of caution becoming the gravity of the situation.

—The board of pardons on Tuesday, the 15th, refused to favorably consider the case of Curtin McClain, now under the death sentence at Lewistown, and the young man will have to hang.

—The Philipsburg Ledger speaks of the shooting of the young man who was robbing an orchard at Ramey as follows: "On Monday afternoon, the 14th. a party of Houtzdale young men, two brothers, named McGowan, went to the farm of Isaac Wolfe, about one mile south-east of Ramey, and were helping themselves to the apples in Wolfe's orchard, when he went over and demanded them to leave. They refused to do so, and when Wolfe threatened to shoot them, they told him to "shoot and be d——d." He then went to the house, got his rifle and fired a shot, he has since claimed, for the purpose of scaring the young men. The bullet went straight for Henry McGowan and pierced his body, wounding him fatally. He was conveyed to his home near Houtzdale, where he lingered until 7:40 Tuesday morning, when death ended his sufferings. Wolfe went to Ramey immediately after the shooting, and gave himself up. He was taken to Clearfield the same evening. The people in and about Ramey are all in sympathy with Wolfe and speak of him as an upright and exemplary citizen. McGowan was aged about 18 years, and had an unenviable reputation. Farmers in that section claim never to have any peace since Houtzdale began to build up, but it is thought that young McGowan's fate will be a lesson to trespassers in general." An item in the Altoona Tribune Wednesday stated that Wolfe says the young men used insulting language to his wife, thus provoking the shooting.

A Question of Color.

The several articles of the Democratic Watchman, in its last issue, relating to the action of the school board in regard to the colored school, flagrantly misrepresents the board, for the next morning after a special meeting of the board Mr. Meek called one of the members of the board to him and asked of him what the board had done, and he was then informed that when the colored committee visited the board, the board took no action in the matter whatever.

He furthur insinuates that Mr. Harris took hold finally and fixed the matter up, when in fact, Mr. Harris entertained the same opinion as did the members who were present at the first meeting referred to.

Now, it is folly for the Watchman to to try to make political capital out of this matter, for it represents neither Democrats or Republicans in the affair, and the course of the board is heartily approved, alike by white and colored citizens, and by all Republicans and Democrats who have any spirit of fairness.

A DEMOCRATIC MEMBER OF THE SCHOOL BOARD.

—An incident in Thursday's proceedings of the Laporte murder trial at Huntingdon was related in the Altoona Tribune as follows: "Dr. Freer was recalled and stated that he desired to correct an error he had made while on the stand that morning. When it was announced by the doctor that the error consisted in the sum of the diameter of the blood corpuscles he had analyzed, a difference of some thousandths part of an inch, a hearty laugh spread over the court room, which was promptly checked by Judge Furst."

—Rev. R. Crittenden departed on Thursday for his old field of labor in Bradford county to visit localities where churches have been founded in connection with Sunday-schools which he planted years ago; also to explore any waste places that may need to be cared for by the society he represents. He is announced to give a lecture talk this evening at Grover station, near Canton, on "Then and Now." No doubt Mr. Crittenden's friends will give him a warm welcome in that section.

—The Bellefonte School Board passed resolutions favoring the admission of colored children of that borough to the public schools. There will be lots of contrast then, at least in color.—Millheim Journal.

The Bellefonte School Board did no such thing. If you want to be right on such subjects you should get your informatian from some other source than the Watchman.

—Why is it that the Watchman criticises the school board merely because it refused to openly violate the law? If the Watchman folks are rebels and law-breakers they might at least keep the fact to themselves, instead of criticising others for not imitating their example.

—We are told that Miss Laura J. Harvey (late teacher of the L. H. Normal) has accepted a position in Millersville Normal. Her many friends wish her abundant success.

—Miss Belle Snyder, daughter of Capt. Snyder, died Friday morning of consumption. She was an intelligent, agreeable young lady whose death will be sincerely mourned.

$500,000 a Year.

Statement of the American, National and United States and Canada Express Companies, Troy, N. Y.

The strength of Rome lay not in her multitude, nor in her grain-laden fleets. These were elements of strength, but her never-failing resources lay in the self-control and discipline of Roman soldiers. Discipline—it is the very soul to all the wonderful meaning possessed by the word "veteran." Mr. Benedict, of Troy is a veteran in the express business. "Thirty three years," he said to your reporter, "I've stood at this desk." It is the discipline of years of experience which gives him the position he holds in the trust and esteem of these three great corporations. "We have a business of $500,000 a year, and I've been absent from this office hardly a month in all that time, although I must confess that many times I've worked here when suffering great pain, for I have been troubled all my life with biliousness and dyspepsia. My system had become so reduced and weak that I had no appetite, and my digestion wholly disordered. I've tried various remedies, but almost two years ago I happened to hit upon Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. After using only one bottle or so I began to feel stronger in every way. The great difficulty has been with my digestion, but this seems to regulate it perfectly. I have, sir, great faith in Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. I have bought and given a great deal of it to the poor around here; those, you know, who have no money to buy medicine of any kind, for there are a great many troubled with bilious diseases and suffer on without aid. I always keep FAVORITE REMEDY in the house. I consider it the best medicine for the blood in the market. Well, I must attend to this matter for the western part of the city. Say, you tell the Doctor I am coming down to Rondont to see him in August. I want to know him." I left the veteran, still at his post, rejoicing in health and grateful to Dr. Kennedy. 17 36 1y

Spring Without Blossoms.

Late in Life to Look for Joy—Yet Never too Late to Mend.

Readers of Hawthorne's "House of Seven Gables" will recall the pathos with which poor Clifford Pyncheon, who had been unjustly imprisoned since his early manhood, said, after his release: "My life is gone, and where is my happiness? Oh! give me my happiness," but that could be done only in part, as gleams of warm sunshine occasionally fall across the gloom of a New England autumn day.

In a letter to Messrs. Hiscox & Co., Mr. L. H. Titus, of Pennington, N. J., says: "I have suffered untold misery from childhood from chronic disease of the bowels and diarrhœa, accompanied by great pain. I sought relief at the hands of physicians of every school and used every patent and domestic remedy under the sun. I have at last found in PARKER'S TONIC a complete specific, preventive and cure. As your invaluable medicine, which did for me what nothing else could do, is entitled to the credit of my getting back my happy days, I cheerfully and gratefully acknowledge the fact."

Mr. E. S. Wells, who needs no introduction to the people of Jersey City, adds: "The testimonial of Mr. Titus is genuine and voluntary; only he does not adequately portray the suffering he has endured for many years. He is my brother-in-law, and I know the case well. He is now perfectly free from his old troubles, and enjoys health and life, ascribing it all to PARKER'S TONIC."

—Full soon the maiden forth will go
Through autumn fields to roam,
To gather parti-colored leaves,
And bear them to her home.
Hour after hour she'll pick them up,
Until she weary grows,
And in her back there comes a creak,
And wind-nipped is her nose.
Then she the leaves will press between
The pages of some book,
And at them from that time henceforth,
Will never take a look.

His funeral occurred on Sunday afternoon and he was buried with the honors of war. He was a member of Gregg Post, No. 95, and about 30 of the comrades were in attendance—also a delegation of Geo. L. Potter Post, No. 261, Milesburg.

Centre County Republicans in Convention.

Obedient to the call of Jno. P. Harris, the county chairman, the delegates to the Republican county convention assembled in the hall in Humes' building on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The attendance was unusually large, all the available seating space being occupied and scores of delegates and spectators being compelled to stand.

D. S. Keller, Esq., was called to the chair. Messrs. H. M. Kephart and Wm. M. Allison were chosen secretaries and Jno. I. Rankin, Esq., reading clerk. Addresses were made by Chairman Keller and Hon. James P. Coburn.

The following gentlemen were appointed a committee on resolutions: Col. D. H. Hastings, Bellefonte; Captain Austin Curtin, Boggs township; S. Sheffer, Spring township; J. T. Fowler, Taylor township; D. H. Ruhl, Potter township. Col. Hastings read the resolutions, as follows:

The Republican party of Centre county, in convention assembled, unanimously resolve—

1st. We again declare our devotion to the principles of the Republican party, and, pointing to its splendid and glorious achievements during the past twenty-five years, reaffirm our conviction that the future of the party will be no less triumphant, and conservative of the best interests and welfare of the country.

2d. We endorse the action of the Republican State Convention in its platform, and in the nomination of Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay for the office of State Treasurer, and pledge ourselves to use all honorable means to secure his election.

3d. We declare our opposition to all discriminations by railroad, or other carrying companies, in freights or otherwise, and are in sympathy with all measures employed to enforce the laws and give equal rights and privileges and exact justice to all patrons of such corporations. We heartily approve all lawful efforts made in good faith to enforce the State constitution forbidding the consolidation, leasing, purchasing, owning or controling by any railroad corporation of a parallel or competing line of railroad.

4th. We nominate General James A. Beaver for Governor of Pennsylvania, and call upon the party throughout the State to join hands with us in doing justice to a brave man, a gallant soldier, an able statesman, and a sterling Republican. The delegates this day elected to the Republican State convention are instructed to use all honorable means to secure his nomination.

Mr. James Milliken moved to amend these resolutions by substituting the following for the 3d section thereof:

Resolved, That while recognizing the status and legal rights of corporations under the laws of our Commonwealth, we hold that in the exercise of corporate privileges all corporations should be restrained from unfair discriminations against individuals or localities, and against the usurpation of corporate rights in the granting of free passes and personal advantages in the shipments of freights upon railroads; and we denounce the action of any political party in singling out one corporation for political assault, while allowing others more guilty of violations of the Constitution to go unrestrained.

Mr. Milliken spoke earnestly in favor of his substitute to which Col. D. H. Hastings replied in vigorous language. Mr. John T. Fowler also took part in the discussion and was followed by further heated remarks from Messrs. Milliken and Hastings. Mr. Milliken moved, after the debate, that the whole subject under discussion be laid upon the table, which motion was defeated. Mr. Milliken then renewed his motion to adopt his substitute as above reported, which motion was also defeated, and the resolutions, as originally read, were adopted.

A. A. Dale, Esq., named W. S. Williams, Esq., of Martha, for the nomination for jury commissioner. Hon. Jas. P. Coburn named Daniel Hess, of Linden Hall, claiming that the latter section should have the candidate. The vote was Hess 37, Williams 26.

Dr. S. F. Lytle, of Philipsburg, was named by Wm. P. Duncan for coroner, and nominated by acclamation.

As delegates to the State convention of 1886, the following gentlemen were placed in nomination: G. M. Boal, of Potter township; Capt. A. Curtin and J. C. Henderson. The vote was:

Boal	51
Curtin	32
Henderson	41

The two highest, Boal and Henderson, were elected.

Three senatorial delegates were chosen, viz., William Allison, H. S. Thompson and John T. Fowler.

John T. Johnston was unanimously elected by acclamation chairman of the Republican county committee for 1886.

IN HYMEN'S MESHES.

A Brilliant Wedding which Unites Two of Bellefonte's Best Young People.

On Thursday evening, before the hour of 6 o'clock, the auditorium of the Reformed church was thronged with the youth, beauty, fashion and culture of Bellefonte. It was easy to see that it was a wedding which had drawn the people together. There were four ushers in black dress suits and button-hole bouquets and around the altar was one of the most elaborate and elegant green and floral displays ever seen in this place. Rare palms, tropical plants, exotics and ferns made the beholder believe that he had fallen asleep only to awake in some garden in Fairyland.

It was after 6 o'clock when Miss S. Onmacht struck up Wagner's wedding march from Lohengrin and the bridal party marched up the centre aisle. The ushers came first. Mr. Olie Hoffer of Tyrone, and Mr. Harry Keller walked together and were followed by Messrs. Chas. Richards and John Miller. C. P. Hewes, Esq., escorted Miss Sallie Hoffer, a sister of the groom, and Mr. I. Newton Gordon escorted Miss Ida Gerberich. Last in the line came Miss Ella Gerberich and Mr. C. U. Hoffer, the bride and groom. They were met at the altar by Rev. Luther M. Sweizig, of Scranton. The wedding ceremony was performed according to the beautiful ritual for the occasion, the ring being presented and the responses being made distinctly.

The costumes of the bride and her maids were extremely elegant and in excellent taste. The bride was attired in an elaborate cream-colored brocade radzemar and satin Surah, trimmed with point lace. The dress was made with square front a la Pompadour. It was modeled after the dress of Pricess Beatrice with long train. A tulle bridal veil gave to her costume the old-time air of a true bride, a veil being worn by each of her maids. Delicate satin slippers covered the feet of each of the ladies of the bridal party. The bride carried pearl roses, uncut, according to the latest mode.

The first bridesmaid, Miss Ida Gerberich, was dressed in pink silk, entrain. The trimming was Oriental lace and she carried Marshal Niel roses. Miss Sallie Hoffer, second maid, was beautifully costumed in lemon surah, entrain with oriental lace trimmings. The clergyman wore a dark surplice which added to his priestly appearance. The groom and his first and second groomsmen were in black full-dress suits.

After the ceremony the friends who were bidden to the reception repaired to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Gerberich, the bride's parents. The wedding party stood in the south parlor where they received congratulations. The room was handsomely decorated with green. By actual count, there were 150 persons present. The numerous, rare and elegant presents were displayed in a room up stairs and filled one entire apartment. As soon as everybody had paid respects to the bride and groom they visited this room. We cannot enumerate them. Several chamber suits, elaborate articles in silver, china and glass ware. A silver cake dish about two feet high, a present from seven gentleman friends. A handsome gilt French clock, entire sets of silver knives, forks and spoons, sets of decorated china, rugs, pictures and articles both useful and ornamental. By singular good fortune, although the articles were counted by the hundreds, there were scarcely any duplicates. People never tired of examining these presents and were even amused when they found among them such useful utensils as a bright dish pan and a coffee mill. The shining dish pan was near the Bible and thus exemplified the trite saying that "Cleanliness is next to Godliness."

Almost before people had opportunity to visit the supper room and inspect the table laden with its burdens of cold meats, salads, cakes, fruits and flowers, the company gathered around the tables and were served by the colored waiters, aided by the obliging ushers. The collation was very choice.

The 8:45 o'clock p. m. train obligingly stopped near the residence and the wedding party entered, thus avoiding the inconvenience of going to the depot. The old slippers and handfuls of rice were thrown after them to bring good fortune. They go to Philadelphia, thence to Washington and the seashore.

Mrs. C. M. Bower, a lady of large experience and taste, had charge of the floral decorations in the church and she acquitted herself magnificently and in a manner which very few people understand as well as she.

The bride is a worthy young lady and is the possessor of every elegant accomplishment as well as thorough knowledge and experience in useful employments. The groom is a highly intelligent merchant. We hope their future way lies along a path bordered on each side by roses and not a thorn to bring anything but happiness to them.

Sabbath-Day Echoes.

The meeting in the hall of the Association at 4 o'clock was in charge of Mr. Chas. Gilmore, and was interesting. J. C. Weaver presided at the piano.

Rev. John R. R. Robinson, the new rector of the Episcopal church, officiated both morning and evening on Sunday. In the morning he preached a thoughtful and earnest sermon from the miracle of Christ walking on the sea, his text being the 24th and 25th verses of the 8th chapter of Matthew. The ship in which the disciples were, he said, may be a type of the Church, from which her Lord at times seems to depart, leaving her tossing on a troubled sea. It was his purpose, at this time, however, to draw a lesson from the condition of the ship to illustrate the life of the individual Christian. The Christian life is a struggle often against contrary winds. Why is this so? It was so chosen by man when God pronounced against him the terrible words, "Cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life; Thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field." When Christ comes walking on the wave to the storm-tossed Christian the sea around him is calm and the journey is made safely to the desired haven. In the evening he made a brief address from a portion I Peter 3:15, "Be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason for the hope that is in you." This was an edifying address. We gathered from his remarks that a constant attendance on the services of the church is the best way to become acquainted with its doctrines, every one of which a Christian should believe, not accepting some and rejecting others. He exorted his congregation to be faithful in their attendance on public worship. A feature of the music at the evening service was a duet by Dr. Geo. Harris and Miss Kate Curtin, most artistically rendered.

In the M. E. church Rev. M. K. Foster officiated both morning and evening. His morning discourse was from I Corinthians 13:13, "And now abideth faith," his theme being "Christain Faith." "Whatsoever he saith unto you do it," part of John 2:5, was the text on which his evening sermon was based.

On Sunday morning Rev. Wm. Laurie preached with his usual ability from St. John 5:24 and in the evening discoursed from the somewhat unusual text in II Chronicles 20:21, "That should praise the beauty of holiness."

Rev. Chas. T. Steck, of the Lutheran church, chose for his text on Sunday morning the striking passage from Ecclesiastes 11:4, "He that observeth the wind shall not sow; and he that regardeth the clouds shall not reap." His evening sermon was from Paul's eloquent exhortation in Romans 6:12, "I beseech you, therefore, brethren," etc. Both discourses were excellent. As a gentleman was heard to remark: "It is impossible for Rev. Steck to preach other than an able sermon."

—The Amateur Band, of Philipsburg, which visited Bellefonte on Saturday, deserves a more extended notice than we had space to give at that time. Several selections of music were rendered during the day and evening. Their playing is very excellent. The band is composed of large, robust men who look as if they were intended by nature to blow music out of a big horn. Most of them are workingmen, but nevertheless, the band is said to be in a prosperous condition financially and they are able to take these little pleasure excursions. It is related of them that notwithstanding the individual habits of the members of the band, each man pledges himself not to drink while on these trips. There are at present 19 instruments in the band. The names of the members, as they appear on the Garman house register, are as follows: Joseph Swift, leader; John Cranshaw, Nesbitt Howie, Robt. Howie, Philip Wagon, Benjamin Ashcroft, George Bent, Harry Byron, John Byron, Thos. Byron, Wm. Brown, John McCall, Alexander Robinson, Fred Wolfall, William Genter, Tony McCallister, John Swift, Fred Eppiett, Thos. Crawshaw, Geo. Setters, Calvin Lawver, David Atherton, Thos. Duly, Richard Howard. They were accompanied by Thomas Dutcher and Geo. Dean as drivers.

—The borough schools have now been in progress a week. There is a larger attendance than ever before, the number of quite young children who have never attended school before being unusually numerous. The school year promises to be a prosperous one.

Williams in the publication of the Philipsburg Ledger, made his appearance in Bellefonte on Wednesday and, in company with Mr. Walter Bayard, found his way to the office of the REPUBLICAN. It gave us genuine pleasure to meet Mr. Douglass as we had heretofore only heard of him and were anxious to see him. He is a very bright young gentleman, a capable journalist and a first-class lady masher. His soft, persuasive voice, fine expressive eyes, contagious laugh, etc., etc., are a first-class outfit for an editor and we don't wonder the Ledger prospers.

The remains rested in a handsome dark wood casket in the north parlor. The occasion was a peculiarly impressive one. The body was taken to Philipsburg on the 5:40 train this morning, for interment.

—About all the weather prognostications we have read or heard this year indicate a cold season and an early arrival of winter. The following from the Huntingdon News is just the opposite, however, and will comfort those who have not had enough summer: "The moon this month is apparently farther south than it has been at time during the year. Old weather prognosticators take that as a basis for predicting warm and dry weather, all of which is yet to come."
